Meyerson as to the malady, but as regards the remedy, I am at consider­able variance. A complete change in our educational system must first take place. More Jewish Schools must be established. Trained Teachers pos­sessing cultivated minds and inspired with enthusiasm for the sacred cause must be engaged, and last but not least, the Jewish Home must be re­stored to its former position. Then the rest will follow as a natural course.

Yours etc.

Hebrew Music.

BY THE REV. A. P. BENDER.

Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentle­men.—Charles Lamb, in referring to the custom of saying grace before meat, gives utterance to his astonish­ment that the act of eating should be the only regular attendant. One night Horace Walpole met Lord Chesterfield leaving the Theatre early. “What, my Lord, are you dismissed?” he asked, “is there no Oratorio this evening?” “Yes,” answered Lord Chesterfield, “they are still pro­longing; but I thought it best to retire, lest I should disturb the King in his privacy.”

It is also not my intention to com­mence my desultory remarks with the pathetic protest of a paralysing pes­simism, voiced by the Psalmist on behal of the exiles from Judaea in Babylon, “How shall we sing the Lord’s song in a strange land?” “For I cannot forget that I have the privilege of addressing you in a city in which not only is the art of music widely and assiduously cultivated, but in every temple of which as it were, the stone cries out of the wall and the beam out of the timber answers it in sympathy with those inimitable and imperishable songs of the spirit which are called the Hymnal of Humanity—the Psalter. Ladies and gentlemen, there is a widespread delusion that the notes which are most pleasing to members of the Jewish race everywhere in the world, are bank-notes. The “chink­ling golden coin”—is popularly sup­posed to be the sweetest music to the ears of those whom one half of the human race has never understood, and whom the other half has always misunderstood. But it is almost superfluous to remind you, who live in a place in which the Scriptures of Israel daily receive not only the deepest spiritual homage in the Church, but the fullest intellectual recognition in School and College, that from immemorial antiquity, the Jews have been foremost in inter­preting the music of the spheres. The Cosmogony of Israel, unlike any other, reveals the morning stars as singing together on the birthday of creation: “From harmony, Heavenly har­mony, This Universal frame began: From harmony to harmony Through all the compass of the notes it ran, The diapason closing full in man.”
