PROF. MAYER AND DR. SENATOR

Professor Mayer and Dr. Senator arrived by air in Durban on Tuesday last. They were enthusiastically received by the Durban community and entertained by Rabbi and Mrs. Freedman, Rabbi Freedman being the chairman of the Natal Branch of the South African Friends of the Hebrew University. They were met in Durban by Dr. T. Ronsheim, secretary of the South African Friends.

Professor Mayer and Dr. Senator arrived at the Germiston Airport on Thursday and were welcomed by the Chairman of the Friends of the Hebrew University, Mr. Myer Leibowitz, and Chairman of the 1945 Drive, Mr. Louis Marks, members of the Committee and representatives of the South African Zionist Federation and South African Jewish Board of Deputies.

They were entertained at an informal gathering of the Friends on Tuesday, where a strong Workers' Committee was formed.

Prof. Mayer and Dr. Senator will make a short stay in Johannesburg and visit various Reef centres, and a most intensive and strenuous programme has been arranged.

The Cinema

ONE of the most poignant and dramatic films to be shown in Johannesburg for some time is "I'll Be Seeing You," which has that tenderness of approach and vigorous handling that go to make a masterpiece. The cast is a splendid one, with each member perfectly attuned to the sensitive structure of the story. There are Ginger Rogers and Joseph Cotton—the bewildered lovers around whom the story is woven—and Shirley Temple, charming and provocative in her first grown-up role, giving every indication of repeating her childhood success. The theme is that of a young lady held in prison for manslaughter who while on a short spell of leave meets a young soldier suffering from a severe attack of neurosis. They fall in love, and the action as well as the complications follow with breathless speed. It is a film that should certainly be seen at the 20th Century . . . The lighter side of the life of war-women is entertainingly told in "Keep Your Powder Dry." Featured are Lana Turner, Laraine Day and Susan Peters who portray the joys and tribulations of three different women with conflicting personalities. The dialogue is fast-moving and amusing, and the film is completely devoid of one dull moment. It should have a long run at the Metro . . . One of the most-talked of films in recent months is "A Song To Remember" which is entering its second week at the Empire. The story is that of Chopin, his teacher, his music and his love. The film is brilliantly produced and superbly acted, with Paul Muni, Merle Oberon and Cornel Wilde in the major roles. It is a pity that the film deviates to a considerable extent from the actual facts of Chopin's life; otherwise it might have become a striking record of the history of an artist as well . . . Of late "horror" films have become the order of the day, and because the theme is rarely new they have lost some of their erstwhile appeal. "The Lady And The Monster," now showing at the Plaza, is an exception, the story being quite original and having an unusual twist at the ending. The film abounds in many surprises, at the same time gives quite a provocative peep into the future. Erich von Stroheim gives an outstanding performance . . . Borrah Minevitch and his Harmonica Rascals give some magnificent turns in "Top Man," which features also Sussana Foster, star of "Phantom of the Opera," and the inimitable pair of fun-makers Donald O'Connor and Peggy Ryan. The story is interesting and the acting good. Don't miss it at the Colosseum!

CONCERT FOR AGED HOME INMATES

A DELIGHTFULLY informal atmosphere prevailed at the Jewish Old Aged Home last Sunday evening, when a concert was given for the benefit of the inmates. The concert was attended also by a large number of guests.

Louis Alter and his Balalaika Orchestra greatly pleased with their melodic well-performed numbers. Mr. Arthur Levin, the leader of the orchestra, sang some Jewish folk songs and responded to several encores.

Other artists who contributed to the success of the evening were Mr. Phil. Shraga, Miss O. Rybko, Mr. Isidore Finestone, Mrs. Miller and Mr. J. Freed. Mr. Leslie Riskowitz was at the piano.

Various members of the Committee expressed their gratitude to the artists on behalf of the inmates. The artists, in turn, promised to arrange further concerts in the near future.

Eileen Ralf's Concert

AT her second concert in the City Hall last Friday night Eileen Ralf once more displayed her versatility. She is indisputably at her best in Beethoven.

Her playing of Stravinsky was a highly intelligent performance, and the Chopin, too, was colourful. She displayed superb technique in Mozart's Sonata in D major and handled Debussy in a delicate, sensitive manner.

One would, however, like more Beethoven to be included in future concerts to be given by this brilliant pianist.

Nan Ronsheim Exhibition
