

He took off his clothes and waded his way through the scene when he walked out of the free rock concert that featured the Rolling Stones. It was at Althamont Speedway near Livermore. The concert attracted 300,000 people.