Noreen wrote: They had over 4000 dance tunes on computer, and at the touch of a button, the requested tune is played immediately.
Noreen has brought back a VIDEO, matching AUDIO, and NOTATION of some brand new dances choreographed by the dance instructors themselves.

SHEILA CATZEL wrote: Dear Fay, I found your stories of the London Conference most interesting and (I) did know of the composers Hans Krasa and Pavel Haas <snip> [mentions Gladys Krenck].

Did it come out that Ernst Krenck was in fact a son-in-law of Mahler at one time, being married to Mahler's daughter ANNA? Krenck also wrote a scenic cantata using a text by Franz Werfel, who was Alma Mahler's 3rd husband. (The second husband, after Gustav Mahler, was WALTER GROPIUS.

JOSHUA HOROWITZ: re PROFESSOR IZALY ZEMTSOVSKY, who used to live in St. Petersburg, went to Univ. of Wisconsin, then BERKELEY, now at STANFORD. In the Groves dictionary he wrote part of the Monumental section on Russian music.

[According to another informant (someone writing into the Shamash "list" ...)] Attended a lecture by a wonderful Russian professor who was then visiting at Stanford this past spring. ... (He said that...) the people in Kiev are very suspicious and difficult to work with, and want to control [all reproduction] themselves but they have neither the equipment or expertise to do so.
