

And now . . . sounds from down South American way

● Roger Lucey . . . driving style, pertinent comments

MANGLES Folk Theatre starts its 1979 season on Friday with a triple bill . . . host Roger Lucey and guest artist Helge Janssen (dancer) and Jaime Alcasar (Bolivian folk singer).

Jaime is an exponent of the South American folk song.

He plays guitar and a number of arcane South American instruments.

Helge is a solo dancer with a highly contemporary style.

Roger, an acoustic musician from Durban, has won a large following in recent months with his driving style and pertinent comments.

The music starts at 8.30 pm.

Saturday night will feature Flibbertigibbit, a versatile group singing their own material and traditional folk songs.

On Monday night the host group will be the Irish combo, Sage.
