Shipping Intelligence

Armed at Table Bay.
June 18. Hildebrandt, 18 guns, from Portnau, arrived from Ports-

Sealed at Table Bay.
DE ZUID-AFRIKAAN.

The conduct of the British Government in India, in relation to the Fugitives, who, on several points, find themselves in the condition of British subjects, and who are out of the jurisdiction of the British Government, is one of the most important questions at present before the public. The Fugitives, who have fled from India, are in the hands of the British Government, and are not entitled to the treatment of British subjects. The Fugitives, who have fled from India, are in the hands of the British Government, and are not entitled to the treatment of British subjects. The Fugitives, who have fled from India, are in the hands of the British Government, and are not entitled to the treatment of British subjects. The Fugitives, who have fled from India, are in the hands of the British Government, and are not entitled to the
They are not entitled to the treatment of British subjects. The Fugitives, who have fled from India, are in the hands of the British Government, and are not entitled to the treatment of British subjects. The Fugitives, who have fled from India, are in the hands of the British Government, and are not entitled to the design of the British Government in India, in relation to the Fugitives, who, on several points, find themselves in the condition of British subjects, and who are out of the jurisdiction of the British Government, is one of the most important questions at present

before the public. The Fugitives, who have fled from India, are in the hands of the British Government, and are not entitled to the treatment of British subjects. The Fugitives, who have fled from India, are in the hands of the British Government, and are not entitled to the WITNERS FROM ENGLISH PAPERS.

His Majesty's lieutenancy, Capt. Campbell, had just explored the valley of the River Black, in his return from the expedition to the north coast, when he was suddenly attacked by a party of the natives, and with a levy of men, who had been collected by his orders, and with the assistance of a few guns and muskets, he managed to repel the attack. The natives, however, were not discouraged, and soon returned in greater numbers, and the fight continued for some time. At length, the enemy was driven off, and the expedition was left in peace.

THE DEATH OF A FINE.

A British subject, of the name of Johnson, aged 25, who had been employed in the service of the British Government, died at Calcutta, on the 1st of March, from a fever, which had been prevalent in the town. He was a brave and active soldier, and had been employed in the service of the British Government for many years.

THE DEATH OF A FINE.

A British subject, of the name of Johnson, aged 25,
who had been employed in the service of the British Government, died at Calcutta, on the 1st of March, from a fever, which had been prevalent in the town. He was a brave and active soldier, and had been employed in the service of the British Government for many years.

THE DEATH OF A FINE.

A British subject, of the name of Johnson, aged 25,
who had been employed in the service of the British Government, died at Calcutta, on the 1st of March, from a fever, which had been prevalent in the town. He was a brave and active soldier, and had been employed in the service of the British Government for many years.

THE DEATH OF A FINE.

A British subject, of the name of Johnson, aged 25,
who had been employed in the service of the British Government, died at Calcutta, on the 1st of March, from a fever, which had been prevalent in the town. He was a brave and active soldier, and had been employed in the service of the British Government for many years.