

The DP is a little confused – it thinks we are their opposition.

❑ FACT

Ever noticed how the DP constantly knocks the NP to get votes? They're so busy whinging about us they've lost sight of the real threat.

Well, while the DP wastes its time and money 'protecting' you from the NP, you can rest assured that we're protecting you from the real danger – the ANC and the SACP.

❑ FACT

There is no significant difference between NP and DP policies, as Zach de Beer himself admits. We both believe in human rights, personal liberty, free enterprise, and so on.

Why campaign against the NP and ignore the politically, socially and economically dangerous socialists and communists in the ANC alliance?

❑ FACT

If you voted DP in 1989, we'd like to remind you of where some of your representatives are now: MP's Dalling, van Eck, Haswell, Cronjé, Momberg, DeWet and many city councillors countrywide, deserted you for a chance of real power in the ANC. A vote for the DP turned out to be a vote for the ANC. It could happen again.

❑ FACT

Unlike the DP, we're not content with constantly struggling to get just one more candidate elected. For a real say in parliament, you need numbers – ten DP's in a parliament of 400 is no opposition, no matter what the DP says.

Already the ANC "are discussing a secret plan to establish a powerful cabinet office that will ensure the organisation has highly centralised control over the new government of national unity". (Sunday Times, 17 April). How will the DP with nobody in cabinet, protect you against this abuse of power?

❑ FACT

The NP fights elections to win.

The DP, on the other hand, is content to exist as a minor opposition party, however weak and ineffectual.

The most persuasive reason the DP can give you to vote for it, is that Helen Suzman once represented it in parliament. But the new National Party has achieved in four years what Mrs Suzman could not achieve in 35 years.

To protect you, in parliament you need real muscle, not just a loud voice.

❑ FACT

The DP folded under pressure from rioting prisoners and joined the ANC in agreeing to give the vote to murderers, rapists and other criminals who mercilessly abused the human rights of their victims. The NP is opposing this.

❑ FACT

The DP represents a tiny group of so-called liberals. After all, it seems Zach de Beer is unable to attract anybody else to his meetings.

The National Party is the only truly multi-racial party with mass support right across the board. Only the NP can protect you from future abuse of power by the ANC/SACP alliance.

❑ FACT

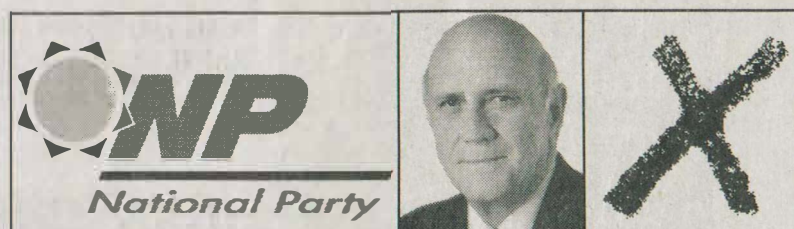

Voting for a weak opposition is a wasted vote.

The NP needs your vote to neutralise the ANC and SACP. And you need the NP to effectively protect your values and interests.

In fact, what the DP promises, only the NP can deliver. Vote for victory. Vote for the new National Party.
