The ... to the north. As the word spread, and as the reports of the different families reached him, his mind was filled with a sense of the importance of the matter. He knew that something must be done, and that he must act quickly. He called a meeting of the elders of the community, and the matter was discussed thoroughly. It was decided that the easiest and most efficient way to proceed would be to send a delegation to the Governor-General of the Cape Colony, to request that he establish a school for the children of the Herero people. The matter was then taken up with the Governor-General, who agreed to the proposal, and arrangements were made for the establishment of the school.

Original Correspondence.

Cape Town — The request for the establishment of a school for the Herero people was made by the Governor-General of the Cape Colony, to the Secretary of the Native Education Department. The Secretary was instructed to send a delegation to the Governor-General, to request that he establish a school for the children of the Herero people. The matter was discussed thoroughly, and it was decided that the easiest and most efficient way to proceed would be to send a delegation to the Governor-General, to request that he establish a school for the children of the Herero people.
