

COLUMBUS,

O, wondrous endeavour
Hither and thither
O'er mountaineous waves, and Ocean's deep valleys...
Pursuing a Fate
Through darkness and Mist,
Hunger and thirst
Sorrow and pain,
Stormy seas, or becalmed,
Dragging and thrusting,
Hither and thither.
Awe-inspired and humble
Faint-hearted but faithful
In life and in death,
Destruction or triumph.
Tortued, pursued,
Hither and thither.
But he who attains.....
Unflinching he stands,
In nowise deceived,
By starry illusions,
In nowise dismayed
By the mocking of men,
Never opressed, by the Phantoms of night....
He only believes,
In his glorious mission...
In Fate's, Eternal, sublimest fulfillment,

Colombus

He only believes,

and follows the Sign....that leads

Through Eternity, Space and all Time -

To God.....
