"ROSE MARIE" IN ITS SECOND WEEK

"Rose Marie," which has been attracting packed houses at the Metro theatre, is now in its second week. Many of its scenes, particularly those which were taken out of doors, are strikingly beautiful. Unlike most "musical" films, "Rose Marie" has a very attractive plot, although the singing of its stars, Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy is, in itself, worth hearing. The next attraction at this theatre is a screen adaptation of Jeffrey Farnol's novel, "The Amateur Gentleman" with Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Elissa Landi and Gordon Harker.

Mr. J. H. Amshewitz

The well-known artist, Mr. J. H. Amshewitz, who was about to leave London a few weeks ago on a short visit to South Africa, was prevented from doing so owing to a sudden illness necessitating a severe operation. He is now leaving the London nursing home for his own residence and hopes to sail for South Africa shortly. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Amshewitz.

An Interesting Recital

THERE was a distinguished audience present at the Selborne Hall on Wednesday evening, when an attractive vocal and pianoforte recital took place. The performers were Madame Olga Ryss and Heinz Hirschland.

The former artist has a voice of rich quality, which was heard to great advantage in a programme of songs of considerable variety and language. Some of her seventeenth century items were of particular interest; they are rarely heard on the concert platform in this country. Madame Ryss also sang a number of songs by modern composers, besides giving a delightful variety of Schumann and Tchaikowsky compositions. The singer received a great ovation from a discerning musical audience.

Mr. Hirschland played a nocturne by Chopin, not generally known and which proved rather interesting. He gave a capable performance of the Fantasia in F Minor by Chopin. When rendering the famous Beethoven Sonata in E Major the player showed a lack of modulation. In his other items there was more delicacy of feeling. His playing of "Gavotte and Variations" by J. P. Rameau — an eighteenth century composer — was particularly pleasing.
