"CLEANSING" GERMAN ART

To Dispose of Works of Jewish Artists

Paris, August 19th.

THE cleansing of German art galleries of "non-Aryan" works is the next step contemplated by the Nazi authorities, it is learnt here to-day.

German museum directors and local art gallery superintendents, especially from Dresden, it is stated, have approached Jewish art collectors outside Germany with a request to buy the works of Jewish artists and authors which are at present the property of German Art Galleries. The offer is explained by the fact that the German art galleries intend in future to judge their collections according to the Nazi racial conceptions and that to prevent the destruction of these works of art, the directors of the German galleries would like to offer them for sale to Jewish art collectors.
