Paragraph 3 :

The Prime Minister has gone on record saying that "I have undertaken to do nothing that I do not intend to carry out" while at the same time he made it quite clear that he will not do anything that would bring about a split in the Nationalist Party. This last point is a crucial one : it has guided every Prime Minister since 1948 and ...

Paragraph 5 :

The multitude of Apartheid laws passed since 1948 provides the legal infrastructure ...

Paragraph 10 :

If the General Election has indeed been called to give the Prime Minister his own mandate the question remains : a mandate for what? For if it is a mandate for fundamental reform this would imply at the very least the scrapping ...
