ALHAMBRA.

The season of ballet by the Cape Town Ballet in conjunction with the Cape Town Orchestra ended to a packed house at the Alhambra Theatre last night, and the indications are that the season will be a highly successful one. Performances will be given nightly at 7.30 next week and there will be matinees on Wednesday and Saturday.

The next event at the Alhambra Theatre will be the first appearance in Cape Town of Ella Goldman, the brilliant 17-year-old pianist, whose return on 7th December will be in aid of Ouma's Gifts and Comforts Fund. Gifted with a remarkable memory, she commands complete repertoires of twenty orchestral and twenty solo concerts.
Every year she accompanied the Palestine Orchestra to Egypt to give concerts for the troops.
She is no mean linguist, and besides speaking fluently Russian and English, has a fair command of Dutch and French.

The musical comedy "The Belle of New York" will be the next theatrical attraction to be presented at the Alhambra and opens a week's season there on December 11th—also in aid of Ouma's Gifts and Comforts Fund. The forthcoming production has a cast of over 100 young people, which should add to its added freshness. Special costumes and sets have been prepared and the production is certainly to be an unusual one.

PLAZA.

The current attraction at the Plaza Theatre is the latest in the popular "Dr. Gillespie" series.
"Three Men in White," the new picture, with Lionel Barrymore as Dr. Gillespie sits in judgment on his proteges, Dr. Adams and Dr. Lee.
A dramatic competition between the two young doctors. . . Others in a capable cast are Marilyn
