DE ZUID-AFRIKAAN.

Kapellen (25 April 1898).

Bron: De Zuid-Afrikaan, 25 April 1898, nr. 11, bladzijde 1.

De hoofdartikel in de editie van vandaag is 'Volksopvoeding'. Het artikel is geschreven door de redacteur en gaat over de noodzaak om kinderen voldoende op te voeden in de grondslagen van het onderwijs. Het is een belangrijk thema in die tijd, met name in het kader van de opkomst van de Afrikaner-raad."
In these days of general inquiry and discussion, perhaps, by some, into the subject of public relief, the subject of the poor, the vagrant, and the disabled, has been brought prominently before the public eye. A public fund has been established in various parts of the country, and the question has been raised as to whether this fund is necessary and how it is to be administered. The object of this paper is to examine the necessity of such a fund and to discuss the means by which it might be administered effectively.

The first duty of the government is to provide for the public welfare. This can be done through various means, including the establishment of public works and the provision of public services. However, there are certain individuals who are unable to support themselves and require assistance. The poor, the sick, and the disabled are some of these individuals. The government has a responsibility to provide for their needs.

The poor have the right to receive public assistance. This right is based on the principle of social justice. The government has a duty to provide for the needs of its citizens, and this includes the poor. The provision of public assistance is a means by which the government can fulfill this duty.

The government has the responsibility to ensure that the funds it provides are used effectively. This requires careful administration of the fund. The fund should be administered in a manner that ensures that the money is used to help those who need it the most. The fund should also be administered in a way that ensures that the money is not wasted or misused.

In conclusion, the establishment of a public fund for the relief of the poor, the sick, and the disabled is a necessary and important step in the provision of public assistance. The fund should be administered in a manner that ensures that the money is used effectively and that the needs of those who require assistance are met.

TOWARDS A CONSERVATIVE PARTY

The meeting referred to in the last number of the Northern Times was held at the offices of the Southern Times on Wednesday last. The meeting was attended by a large number of members of the Conservative Party, and was addressed by Mr. H. J. C. Pease, who gave a very able and spirited speech. He pointed out the necessity for a Conservative Party, and the need for it to be strong and united.

The meeting was a very successful one, and was attended by a large number of members of the Conservative Party. The speaker was well received, and his speech was enthusiastically received by the audience. The meeting was followed by a public meeting in the adjacent hall, which was also well attended.

The Conservative Party is a powerful force in the country, and is playing an important role in the political life of the nation. It is a party that is committed to the principles of freedom, justice, and prosperity, and is dedicated to the well-being of all its members.

REMARKS ON EDUCATION

Education is one of the most important issues of our time. It is the key to the future of the country, and is essential for the development of a strong and prosperous nation. The government has a duty to ensure that all its citizens have access to quality education.

The government has taken steps to improve the education system in the country. These steps include the provision of more resources for education, the introduction of new curricula, and the establishment of new schools.

However, more needs to be done. The government should continue to invest in education, and should strive to ensure that all its citizens have access to quality education. The government should also work to address the challenges facing the education system, and to ensure that it is able to meet the needs of its citizens.

In conclusion, education is a key to the future of the country. The government has a duty to ensure that all its citizens have access to quality education. The government should continue to invest in education, and should work to address the challenges facing the education system.

TOWARDS A CONSERVATIVE PARTY

The meeting referred to in the last number of the Northern Times was held at the offices of the Southern Times on Wednesday last. The meeting was attended by a large number of members of the Conservative Party, and was addressed by Mr. H. J. C. Pease, who gave a very able and spirited speech. He pointed out the necessity for a Conservative Party, and the need for it to be strong and united.

The meeting was a very successful one, and was attended by a large number of members of the Conservative Party. The speaker was well received, and his speech was enthusiastically received by the audience. The meeting was followed by a public meeting in the adjacent hall, which was also well attended.

The Conservative Party is a powerful force in the country, and is playing an important role in the political life of the nation. It is a party that is committed to the principles of freedom, justice, and prosperity, and is dedicated to the well-being of all its members.

REMARKS ON EDUCATION

Education is one of the most important issues of our time. It is the key to the future of the country, and is essential for the development of a strong and prosperous nation. The government has a duty to ensure that all its citizens have access to quality education.

The government has taken steps to improve the education system in the country. These steps include the provision of more resources for education, the introduction of new curricula, and the establishment of new schools.

However, more needs to be done. The government should continue to invest in education, and should strive to ensure that all its citizens have access to quality education. The government should also work to address the challenges facing the education system, and to ensure that it is able to meet the needs of its citizens.

In conclusion, education is a key to the future of the country. The government has a duty to ensure that all its citizens have access to quality education. The government should continue to invest in education, and should work to address the challenges facing the education system.

TOWARDS A CONSERVATIVE PARTY

The meeting referred to in the last number of the Northern Times was held at the offices of the Southern Times on Wednesday last. The meeting was attended by a large number of members of the Conservative Party, and was addressed by Mr. H. J. C. Pease, who gave a very able and spirited speech. He pointed out the necessity for a Conservative Party, and the need for it to be strong and united.

The meeting was a very successful one, and was attended by a large number of members of the Conservative Party. The speaker was well received, and his speech was enthusiastically received by the audience. The meeting was followed by a public meeting in the adjacent hall, which was also well attended.

The Conservative Party is a powerful force in the country, and is playing an important role in the political life of the nation. It is a party that is committed to the principles of freedom, justice, and prosperity, and is dedicated to the well-being of all its members.

REMARKS ON EDUCATION

Education is one of the most important issues of our time. It is the key to the future of the country, and is essential for the development of a strong and prosperous nation. The government has a duty to ensure that all its citizens have access to quality education.

The government has taken steps to improve the education system in the country. These steps include the provision of more resources for education, the introduction of new curricula, and the establishment of new schools.

However, more needs to be done. The government should continue to invest in education, and should strive to ensure that all its citizens have access to quality education. The government should also work to address the challenges facing the education system, and to ensure that it is able to meet the needs of its citizens.

In conclusion, education is a key to the future of the country. The government has a duty to ensure that all its citizens have access to quality education. The government should continue to invest in education, and should work to address the challenges facing the education system.

TOWARDS A CONSERVATIVE PARTY

The meeting referred to in the last number of the Northern Times was held at the offices of the Southern Times on Wednesday last. The meeting was attended by a large number of members of the Conservative Party, and was addressed by Mr. H. J. C. Pease, who gave a very able and spirited speech. He pointed out the necessity for a Conservative Party, and the need for it to be strong and united.

The meeting was a very successful one, and was attended by a large number of members of the Conservative Party. The speaker was well received, and his speech was enthusiastically received by the audience. The meeting was followed by a public meeting in the adjacent hall, which was also well attended.

The Conservative Party is a powerful force in the country, and is playing an important role in the political life of the nation. It is a party that is committed to the principles of freedom, justice, and prosperity, and is dedicated to the well-being of all its members.

REMARKS ON EDUCATION

Education is one of the most important issues of our time. It is the key to the future of the country, and is essential for the development of a strong and prosperous nation. The government has a duty to ensure that all its citizens have access to quality education.

The government has taken steps to improve the education system in the country. These steps include the provision of more resources for education, the introduction of new curricula, and the establishment of new schools.

However, more needs to be done. The government should continue to invest in education, and should strive to ensure that all its citizens have access to quality education. The government should also work to address the challenges facing the education system, and to ensure that it is able to meet the needs of its citizens.

In conclusion, education is a key to the future of the country. The government has a duty to ensure that all its citizens have access to quality education. The government should continue to invest in education, and should work to address the challenges facing the education system.