STAATS BIRLIOTEEN The Late Mr. Moses Morrison

THE late Mr. Moses Morrison, who died at his home in Escombe, Natal, on July 10, at the age of 67, was one of the best known figures in South African Zionism.

Born in Lithuania, he came to this country, together with his mother, in 1901, landing in Cape Town. He became a member of the committee of the Dorshei Zion, walking in from Fish Hoek for all Zionist meetings.

Within 10 years his health began to cause him anxiety, and after searching for a district where the climate would be more suitable to his health, he settled in Escombe, where he bought a small general dealer's business, which he developed, aided later by his wife, into the large mail order house now known throughout the subcontinent.

In 1915 he married May Brasofsky, a Hebrew teacher, who came to South Africa from Palestine.

Together Mr. and Mrs. Morrison threw themselves into every phase of Jewish and Zionist activity.

THE LATE MR. MORRISON

But Mr. Morrison's main interest was in Eretz Israel, and it was no mere theoretical interest. He bought property in that country, encouraged the breeding of leghorn poultry the and he was one of the original directors of Binyan. Through his business he imported Palestine goods into the Union. At the present moment some of the late Mr. Morrison's property in Palestine is lent to WIZO.

He was a generous contributor to all Zionist as well as to all Jewish causes, and to him goes the credit of introducing the Stop Order system in Zionist fund-raising campaigns, for he realised that for the development of Eretz Israel large sums of money are needed.

money are needed.

It was because of his real understanding of the Jewish position, of his sincerity and clearness of vision, that every Zionist emissary who came to Natal during the past 20 years of Mr. Morrison's life (during which time he was, more or less, confined to his bed) went out of his way to pay a special visit to Escombe.

The late Mr. Morrison was a great

The late Mr. Morrison was a great reader and was always ready to give others the fruit of his thoughts. He loved learning, and that was why he gave generously to the Hebrew University.

He took a keen interest in children and to him goes the credit of sponsoring the first children's village in Palestine. It was founded to house orphans from Ukraine during the first World War. Youth Aliyah had his enthusiastic support from its very inception.

Non-Jewish causes were as gerously supported and Escombe bears witness to this. For some time before his death he was busy with plans for the erection of a swimming bath for the children of the district. A great man has passed. To Mrs. Morrison, his son and daughters and to all his relatives deep and sincere sympathy is expressed.

"Jewish History Is A Weapon Of Jewish Rights" DR. SHATZKY ADDRESSES HISTORICAL SOCIETY

"History for the Jewish people has been a vital defensive necessity, and never a luxury," said Dr. Jacob Shatzky, Research Director for the Jewish Scientific Institute, when addressing a meeting of the S.A. Jewish Historical Society, at the Carlton Hotel, last Thursday evening.

Rabbi Dr. S. Rappaport presided. He said that Jews would live in the lands of the Diaspora for generations to come, and that it was therefore necessary for them to know their history. "If the Jews are to remain a nation they must become acquainted with their past and their present," he said.

Dr. Shatzky chose as his subject "Local Jewish History." He said that the first comprehensive Jewish histories appeared shortly before the French revolution in 1848. "The Jewish leadership found it necessary to have material available, to show the equality of the Jew. Thus in every important country of the world local Jewish history has played an important role in the fight for the emancipation. In 1860 the first Russian Jewish history textbooks were written in Hebrew. Some of these were later translated into the Russian language. It must be understood that with the development of apologetic histories came the growth of academic history. This natural development can clearly be traced in the development of American Jewry," he said.

Dr. Shatzky stressed that one of the primary tasks of Jewish history was as a weapon in the defence of Jewish rights.

"Histories on South African Jewry began with the Jewish Dutch historians, who as early as the 17th century wrote several works on the subject. We have available in our archives in New York several other documents and newspapers relating to this period. A real necessity now arises for your society to go about with the collection of material. Rabbi Rabinowitz has mentioned the publication of a Jubilee volume in 1950 of the part played by Jews in the history of the Boer war. Another important task you must undertake is the publication of a source book, and possibly a yearly magazine. In addition the society must organise an archive to keep all available material," he said.

In conclusion, Dr. Shatzky said that although there were at present no rising Jewish historians in the Union, it was necessary to have the material compiled.

Mr. Gus Saron, general secretary of the S.A. Jewish Board of Deputies, proposed the vote of thanks after a discussion had taken place.

PNINA SALZMAN ENTERTAINED

PNINA SALZMAN and her mother

PNINA SALZMAN and her mother were the guests of honour at a cocktail party held at the home of Mrs. N. E. Rosenberg, "Beth Ami," Lower Houghton.

Mr. S. Yellin, chairman of the S.A. Friends of the Palestine Orchestra and Habimah, in welcoming the guests of honour, after referring to the heroic struggle being waged by Israel, said that one aspect of their struggle had been completely ignored, namely, their tenacious determination not to surrender any cultural or artistic institution and not even to allow a pause in the great work which the cultural and artistic institutions were doing.

"It is quite apparent that a cultural renaissance of our people is already taking shape in Israel."

Mr. Yellin said that Pnina Salzman, who had plant the said that Pnina Salzman,

Mr. Yellin said that Pnina Salzman, who had played on many occasions with the Palestine Orchestra and who took a keen interest in the orchestra, always did her utmost to raise funds for the orchestra in the countries she visited. While her present visit to South Africa was being arranged, she had insisted that she should be given an opportunity to play under the auspices of the S.A. Friends of Palestine Orchestra and such a concert would take place at the Langham Hotel on July 31.

He thanked Mr. Alec Cherniavsky for permitting this concert.
