

JOHANNESBURG'S Folk Festival started two days ago, and those of you who have not already attended are missing a rare opportunity. This is the fourth festival presented by the South African Folk Music Association (SAFMA). Our pictures show (above) dark-haired Corneille Möller, and (right) Keith Blundell and Barbara Thompson, who take part in the show.

including Gary and Barry from Durban. Also from Durban is Edl Niederlander, who is very popular.

Anyone wishing to find out more about the festival should contact Mrs. Barbara Thompson at 42-6208.

Musical direction is by Irene Frangs and SAFMA have employed the services of well-known theatrical producer Richard Daneel. Des Linden is directing, and he and Dawn are also appearing in the festival. Keith Blundell is producing the finales.

As you know, the festival is being held at a Hillbrow coffee bar, already well established in the folk field, and adjoining premises. Today a workshop is being held at the coffee bar, where beginners are being taught guitar and banjo technique and voice production. Folk singers from all over South Africa and Rhodesia are taking part in the festival.
