

PACT MUSIC AND 3RD EAR MUSIC PRESENT THE 1993

SINGERSONGWRITER PROJECT

EXPLORING THE TRADITION OF THE MODERN SA TROUBADOUR

The very first SINGERSONGWRITER PROJECT was held twenty years ago in March 1973 in Johannesburg. PACT MUSIC has appointed veteran composer and exponent of South African music, DAVID MARKS (composer of It's A Strange World We Live in Master Jack, one of SAMRO's top ten South African compositions), to compile and direct the series.

South Africans generally have a narrow view of local songwriters, often labelling them as "folk" musicians. While a great deal of resources have gone in to the development and distribution of the work of composers of this genre in Afrikaans, Singersongwriters active in English and other indigenous languages have not been afforded the same exposure. The new series focuses on this unappreciated repertoire. PACT's SINGERSONGWRITER SERIES aims to address this imbalance by presenting music that has until now only been heard in informal venues, clubs and festivals, in a professional theatre context for the first time!

The presentation takes the form of an informal exchange of songs between the composers and the audience, with the songs being performed acoustically. The emphasis is on the composer's craftsmanship and the quality of the songs themselves. The important factor is that the songs are to be performed by the composers only.
