peace is made, I am to give to the English all the cattle driven to me in the war. The English said when we were...

The English Governor fired guns, and said, the Kye is the boundary of the Colony, your people made war on my King's, and this must be the Frontier.

Hintza had paid in nine days only three tons of cattle, and the Governor said, "You must go with me, the cattle are not some, although I have ceased to make war nine days."

Hintza lost his life because he tried to escape; Smith tried to catch him, he would not stop, and he was shot; it was his own fault; the English would not have hurt him, because he went for the cattle, which they came to our country for; we all believe Hintza was very wrong, but he told us on the Dabassi (the second Camp we were at with the English), that he would make his escape, and he was always wanting to side among the Fingoes for the purpose; he often said, he could easily escape when he liked. I have often been in war; five times wounded with the Tamboukies, I will not be made a prisoner—we never take one—it is life or death, I could not save my own father, because he would fight until he escaped or was killed.

We did (Amaphati) not understand Hintza; some of his Pakati were against the war—many for it—many were in the Colony; all the cattle taken from the English were driven to Hintza, by his order; great numbers.

The English Governor, when at the Goss, sent very often for Hintza to come to speak to him, there was no war then; Hintza would not go until he got all his Pakati to him; Socha was sent to talk with the English to say he was coming, but he never went.

Hintza ought to have behaved well to the English; some years ago they saved our country, and he ought not to have promised to go with Smith, and then run off; every body in all the country say so, for, Smith was very kind to him and all of us.

DUPLICATE.] B. 2. Deputy Quarter-Master General's Office, King William's Town, 3d May, 1836.

The Pakati, Umzuta, came to Colonel Smith this day (3d May) to recover some cattle he had lost, and his deposition relates to the late events taken—1, Umzuta, depose, that I came into the Camp of the British Army, where the Governor commanded in person, on the 20th of May, about this time last year, with the late Chief Hintza—that I was one of his greatest Pakatis, I came in with him to treat as to peace, with the Governor; peace was made, as the Governor wrote down, and which we all understood; Hintza agreed, and the cannon fired. When we came in I did not know Hintza meant to stay, but after peace was made, Hintza was very pleased, and said, I shall stay with the English. Hintza sent off to look for the cattle, but his people did not like to go then as he had already distributed them amongst them, and they held them for other people; there were great numbers of English cattle with Hintza's people, I was present at the Great Meeting; Hintza assembled a little before he went up to the Amava, a very great meeting, all the Pakatis that were attached to him, and Macomo's message.

"We are fighting, what are we to do?" You must not fight, Hintza said, but many of the Pakatis said, yes, they must fight, and we shall join; Hintza then went up to the Amava, to the Dutchman, Louis Strickard, and we must not appear to encourage the war, but do so privately, we shall then get cattle; Louis Strickard said, we must send to Macomo's people to send us all the cattle, we can then help ourselves. Hintza assembled his Councilors (Pakati) to hear Macomo's message; some Pakati were for the war, some against it, many were in the Colony.

I was with Hintza when he met Van Wyk, Hintza said, I am sitting still—but his people were encouraging the war. Umzuta spoke at the great meeting for the war, so did Goss, and Umzuta's people were in the Colony. Cuba (the English name) to Butterworth as friends, but when Hintza would not come, the Governor declared war before Cuba, and told him to tell Hintza.

When we were with the English we were treated well; Hintza lived with Colonel Smith who gave him many presents—Hintza said he was very fond of Smith, when he got to the Kye, Hintza was to be taken over to the cattle-baring camp according to the Treaty of Peace—only a few tons, Hintza was very sorry to leave his country, and proposed to Smith to take soldiers and go with him to make his people give up the English Cattle.

Before Hintza left with Smith, he spoke to all his people in the English Camp, "I am going with Smith and the Troops to make the people give up the cattle, when we have got the number, I am free." He and Bokoo were with the Governor, when the cattle are paid, they also are free.

I heard Smith tell Hintza before us all, in the head of the Kye; Hintza, you go with me, but if you try to escape you will be shot; the moment you get the cattle you and all the people are free. He and Bokoo and all the Pakatis were very fond of Smith, they knew he would not hurt Hintza if he did not try to escape.

I went away to try to get some cattle by Hintza's orders to the lower part of the Kye; I had orders to bring all I could get; I got eighty head, which I delivered to the Governor's Camp, who sent me to Smith with a receipt for the eighty cattle, to diminish the number Hintza was to find; I met Smith on the Gunda, half a walk from the Baabee; I had been told by my own people Hintza was killed in trying to escape; which I believed, because I knew the English would not have hurt him, they always treated him so kindly and like a Chief.

It was I, told Heil and Bokoo in the English Camp on the Imotshane, that Hintza was dead. Hintza rode off, Smith said, "You must stop; stop Hintza; he rode away; Smith came up to him, and pulled him off his horse; he then threw an assegai, and ran towards the river; he was called by a man who spoke Caffre to stop; he would not; he was first at and was wounded; he ran on, and tried to hide in the river; get between some rocks, and held his assegai ready against any man; he would not come out though called to, and was shot; no Caffre can be taken prisoner.

I, UMZUTA, make Oath to this. His X mark. True Interpretation. (Signed) T. SHEPSTONE, C. I. Sworn before me, the Dep. Gr.-Mr.-Gen., this 23d day of May, 1836. (Signed) H. G. SMITH, Col., Dep. Gr.-Mr.-Gen. Witness: (Signed) P. de LANCY, Cap. Com. 79th Regt. ARTHUR L. BALFOUR, A.D.C. A true Copy. (Signed) ARTHUR L. BALFOUR, A.D.C.

DUPLICATE.] B. 10. Office of the Justice of the Peace at Fort Beaufort, this 10th day of May, 1836. Before Alexander Boswell Armstrong, Esq., Justice of the Peace for the District of Albany.

Appeared, Lewis Arnoldus, a Hottentot, who, being duly sworn, deposes as follows:— At the time the Caffre War broke out, I was in the service of Mr. Sheffield, a Settler, who resided at Kommetjies Drift. On or about the 26th December, 1834, the Caffers attacked his place, which they destroyed by fire, and took away his cattle, sheep, and all property belonging to him; I contrived to catch a horse for Mr. Sheffield to make his escape; he wished to go to Graham's Town for ammunition, which we were in want of, and begged of me to remain at his place, and to endeavour to save the property. The Caffers were so numerous, that we could make no resistance; they told me and the other Hottentots who were at the place, that if we attempted to fight they would spare our lives. There were about fifteen Hottentots with their families, and about fourteen guns, but scarcely any ammunition; we were compelled to join the Caffers; we were brought under the Caffre Chief Koo; during the time I was placed in this position, I had opportunities of becoming acquainted with the general movements and transactions of the Caffers.

There was a constant communication kept up between the Caffre Chiefs and Hintza, the great Chief of the Caffers. I observed that there was no movement or operation of any importance that was not conducted under his guidance, inasmuch as Colonel Smith directed the soldiers under his command. Hintza's orders were equally obeyed by all the minor Chiefs concerned in the late war, and all the cattle, horses and sheep, that were captured from the Colonists, were immediately sent across the River Kye to Hintza, retaining only sufficient cattle for supplying us with provisions, and the lean cattle that were unable to travel to such a distance; by the latter cattle alone have the Caffers on this side of the Kye benefited. I also understood that all the valuable cattle of the Kye had been sent to Hintza's country, three months previously to the outbreak of the war, and I believe that these cattle, for the greater part, are still in possession of the Caffers across the Kye, to whom they were sent in trust. The most valuable cattle with brand-marks of the Farmers and Settlers, besides the best horses and sheep are to the best of my belief, now in possession of Hintza's Caffers, who of themselves are more numerous and powerful than all the Caffre Tribes this side of the Kye River. At the time the Caffers attacked the Kat River Settlement, I heard the Caffre Chief Eoo say, "Today Tyalie and Hintza's Caffers will attack the Kat River Settlement;" and after the Caffers were repulsed there, I heard it generally asserted by the Caffers, that all the cattle of Hintza's Caffers killed upon that occasion then of the other Caffers; and the reason they assigned was, that Hintza's Caffers were not so used to fight against the Colonists as the Border Caffers. When I was with the Chief Eoo, one of Hintza's Captains came there and told us, that when the Kat River Settlement was attacked, there was a large command of Hintza's Caffers behind Winterberg, with a view to cooperate, but finding the result unfavorable to them, they returned to the Kye with all the cattle they could capture from settlement by Hintza's orders. When Hintza learned that the attack upon the Kat River Settlement had failed, he gave orders that the whole of his disposable force, together with that of Macomo, Tyalie, Eoo, Umzula, Botma, and, indeed, all the Caffre Tribes, should combine and make another attack upon the Kat River Settlement. Macomo informed us that Hintza's Caffers should be spared; and had not Colonel Smith appeared at Buffalo River, with a strong British force, this combined movement would have been made, for, this mediated attack upon the Settlement was decidedly ordered by Hintza to take place, three days after the said appearance of the British Forces.—Hintza saw that his own country was thus endangered, and that he should be compelled to give up the Colonial Property, which he had possessed himself of, and he therefore abandoned the attack he proposed.—Hintza was much enraged against the people of the Kat River Settlement, as he expected that they would have joined him in the destruction or repulsion of the Colonists; he heard from Eoo that Hintza visited Philip's Town, in the Kat River Settlement, a short while previously to the war breaking out; I have also heard from others belonging to the Kat River Settlement, that he did make the visit, but that he did not see me; I cannot recollect the names of the persons who told me this, but I will endeavour to gain their names; I cannot, however, doubt that he did make this visit.

When the war at first broke out, there was a division of feeling amongst the Caffers, as to the Missionsaries. I should rather say, that the greater number of the Caffers wished to spare their lives, and that in consequence of this proposition, the war between the Caffers became almost unanimous; very unfavorable to the Missionsaries, and they were incited against them by most of the influential Captains; Tyalie was most opposed to them, both Eoo, Macomo, and others, influential decided upon killing all the Missionsaries. Galka, named Suta, interferred, and by her influence and exertions the lives were spared of many of the Missionsaries who had not previously escaped. The Caffre Chief Bokoo, was the only one of the Chiefs, who joined Suta in a decidedly favorable feeling towards sparing the lives of the Missionsaries. It was the universal intention of the Caffers to destroy all the Traders, and any that did effect their escape was through the interposition of Suta, and I believe that Bokoo was rather disposed to spare them likewise. I made several efforts to escape from the Caffers, but did not succeed until I recognized some Hottentots belonging to Major Bago's corps, and implored them to assist me in effecting my escape, and bringing me over to the British Forces. About five or six days after the war broke out, a message came from Hintza to the Caffre Chief Eoo, directing him to communicate with the Hottentots at the Kat River Settlement, and to tell them they must not interfere in the war, that the Caffers wanted their assistance in fighting against the white Colonists. Eoo's Nephew, named Yo-Yo, was sent with the Hottentots to Orange, to make this communication, but on getting to the Chumie, they found that the Officer commanding at Kat River Post had withdrawn to the centre of the Settlement; and they were afraid to venture further to make the required communication, but Yo-Yo deputed Tyalie to make the communication the best way he could.

In recommending the cultivation of maize, beans, and potatoes, it may be well to notice, that from experiments made by celebrated chemists, the portion of nutriment contained in various edible substances was found as follows:— Cabbages and Turnips yield only 8 pounds of nutriment in 100 lbs. Carrots 14 ditto in 100 lbs. Potatoes 25 ditto in 100 lbs. Maize 75 ditto in 100 lbs. French Beans, ripe, 92 ditto in 100 lbs. Common Beans, ditto, 89 ditto in 100 lbs. Peas 93 ditto in 100 lbs. Lentils 94 ditto in 100 lbs. Bread 80 ditto in 100 lbs. Meal 34 ditto in 100 lbs.

It may be well, therefore, to consider the vegetables best adapted to the soil and situation of the different parts of this Colony in respect to the return they will probably yield for the labor bestowed in cultivating them.—Many will, I fear, be inclined to question the impossibility of any extended successful cultivation in this Colony for want of water!—A mountainous country, surrounded by the immense Southern Ocean, cannot be irrigated without water. Running streams, indeed, that can be led over the surface of arable land to any extent, are, indeed, not common in some parts of the Colony, but who has ever tried to make a well of any depth or capacity for the purpose of irrigation? I have already advanced, what I will fearlessly maintain, that the fertility and capabilities of this fine Colony far exceed that of India, and the finest and most productive part of India—Bengal. It may surprise many of your Readers who are unacquainted with the circumstances, that from Calcutta to Delhi, a distance of 1200 miles, there is not, I believe, a single garden, or a single grain of wheat grown without the assistance of artificial irrigation; that is, water is raised, generally by means of axes, out of rivers, tanks, or wells, and many of the large military stations were for both men and animals raised from wells, which have been sunk at great expense and labor through rocky ground, opening obstacles as great as any that may be expected here. It has been stated by that celebrated traveller Humboldt, that the produce of land under irrigation is increased threefold,—but the fact is, that land which in the dry season cannot be made to produce any thing for want of water, may by irrigation be rendered productive all the year round. By extending summer cultivation and irrigation throughout the Colony, plantation of valuable timber trees might be planted, which, besides beautifying the country, would greatly improve its fertility, and in a few years be a source of handsome income to the proprietors, and this might lead to the first step in improving our husbandry making inclosures. I find that the Egyptian or Sweet-brier grows luxuriantly, and forms an excellent hedge in this Colony, perhaps equal or better than any other, as neither sheep or cattle are fond of it as a substitute of food. I cannot close this communication without mentioning, that a very extraordinary vegetable called the Cow Cabbage, has lately attracted the attention, and excited the wonder of the Agricultural world in England. Of this vegetable I received one seed in a letter lately, which was planted on the 26th inst., and its vegetation appeared above ground on the 26th, it is now looking well, and will I trust, prove an useful and advantageous introduction to the Colony. I inclose the printed paper which accompanied the seed from England, for a copy of which you may perhaps find room in your valuable paper.

WONDERFUL PRODUCTION OF NATURE! WATERLOO CHESSMAN EVERGREEN COW CABBAGE. Of recent discovery. This singular and extraordinary species of Cabbage, almost unknown in England till introduced by the persevering efforts of Mr. Fullard, three years since, grows from nine to twelve feet high, and from fifteen to twenty feet in circumference. Fire of these stupendous Cabbages, now raised to the greatest perfection in quality as well as size, have been frequently found, by proper management, an ample allowance of food for one hundred sheep or ten cows per day; and the nutrition thence supplied by this delicious vegetable will (as experience has already abundantly demonstrated) speedily produce the most surprising improvement in the growth and utility of every description of cattle. Y.

superior to any heretofore produced by the most profitable speculation, the general and extensive demand for which must exceed all present calculation. The commerce of the country, as well as the interest and pleasure of the community at large, will likewise be greatly, if not incalculably, enhanced by the cultivation and use of this improved vegetable production.

This Waterloo Chessman Cow Cabbage has been pronounced by the Father of Agriculturists, (whom from his well-known experience, we are all bound to believe) to be the greatest wonder that ever appeared in the vegetable Kingdom. It was shown to a very highly esteemed and truly respectable gentleman, T. W. Coke, Esq., Holkham Hall, Norfolk, in October last, where he immediately said, "Mr. Fullard, you told me, three years ago, Agriculturists were only half way advanced in improvement;—this Cabbage makes me say, I am bound to believe you. I do say it in the greatest wonder the earth ever produced." Mr. Coke subsequently introduced several Dukes and other Noblemen, to the number of nine, to view this great production, all of whom expressed their astonishment, and engaged a part of the seed for use this year, (1836). These Cabbages, if designed for use in the Winter season, can, for convenience, as well as advantage to the grower, be then removed from the fields, and will serve to make handsome serpentine walks in gardens, or they will form a most excellent avenue for Winter across a field, or by setting them singly will make a ground, that has not a tree in it, a Park for Winter, and may be given to the stock in Spring. To obviate scepticism, and to afford the highest satisfaction and confidence as to the perfect rectitude of the statement here given, agriculturists, gardeners, and all who feel an interest in this species of produce, are respectfully informed, that Mr. Brown, wholesale Perfumer, 45, Chesapeake, London, exhibits specimens of the Cabbage, and also wool of sheep fed with this vegetable production; he is the sole Agent in London for the sale of the Waterloo Chessman Cow Cabbage Seed. All purchasers of it are particularly desired to sow it at the proper season (which is in July), as stated in the Directions which accompany each parcel. The plants of this seed, unlike other vegetable produce for cattle, never fall, either numerically or in quality. A part of this seed has been engaged by His Majesty, and forwarded to Norfolk Farm, near Windsor, to be sown this season; and the production is already likewise patronized by most of the Royal Family.—The Duke of Wellington, and several other gentlemen have selected the seed for cultivation this year. Sold in Packages £1 each.

(From the "India Gazette" of Friday, Oct. 7, 1836. BENGAL.—The Plague at Pallee.—We have been favored with some further information, apparently of a most authentic character, touching that subject of fearful interest the Plague, for plague it is, or something plaguey like it, as our correspondent writes, that is now raging in the devoted city of Pallee, from which, it will be observed by his communication, that the disease threatens us with its approach; having now advanced to a place called Sooji; about ten coss to the eastward of Pallee. Should this distemper turn out to be the veritable plague, and should it extend its ravages, it will prove a more troublesome visitor to India than the Cholera was, or a Russian invasion will be. This information of our correspondent, who is himself one of the nearest Europeans to the scene of visitation is conveyed in the form of replies to our informant's questions, from one of the Native residents of Bewar on his return from a visit to the infected and desolate city, in which it appears that from death and flight only about three thousand out of a population of twelve thousand dwellers remain. 20th October.

We publish the following letter, dated Kaira 23d ultimo, giving an account of the already too well-known disease that has broken out at Pallee. "I am exceedingly sorry to acquaint you that a most dreadful plague has broken out at Pallee in the Marwar country, which 300 or 200 die daily; and the misery and alarm is so great, that sons have left their parents and fled for their own safety, and parents have left their offspring for the same reason—all trade has stopped—merchants have received letters from their agents, giving dreadful accounts from one of the Native residents of Pallee, who has returned from a visit to the infected and desolate city, in which it appears that from death and flight only about three thousand out of a population of twelve thousand dwellers remain. 20th October.

By extending summer cultivation and irrigation throughout the Colony, plantation of valuable timber trees might be planted, which, besides beautifying the country, would greatly improve its fertility, and in a few years be a source of handsome income to the proprietors, and this might lead to the first step in improving our husbandry making inclosures. I find that the Egyptian or Sweet-brier grows luxuriantly, and forms an excellent hedge in this Colony, perhaps equal or better than any other, as neither sheep or cattle are fond of it as a substitute of food. I cannot close this communication without mentioning, that a very extraordinary vegetable called the Cow Cabbage, has lately attracted the attention, and excited the wonder of the Agricultural world in England. Of this vegetable I received one seed in a letter lately, which was planted on the 26th inst., and its vegetation appeared above ground on the 26th, it is now looking well, and will I trust, prove an useful and advantageous introduction to the Colony. I inclose the printed paper which accompanied the seed from England, for a copy of which you may perhaps find room in your valuable paper.
