THE ZUID-AFRIKAAN.

CAPETOWN, AUGUST 12, 1852.

THERE is no longer any doubt that General CATHCART's call for aid and co-operation upon the burghers of the Eastern Districts, has been readily responded to by all those who found themselves in a situation to do so, though in many instances at a considerable sacrifice.

The force which has thus voluntarily taken the field will, it is said, furnish a palpable contrast with that which, on a previous occasion, responded to Sir HARRY SMITH's Proclamation, and affords a striking proof of what can be effected by measures of pacification and conciliation. The contents of the Proclamation, in which the last appeal was made, were indeed very indefinite, and did not enter into the details of previous arrangements; but the ardour by which the burghers were actuated in this instance, had removed all difficulties even before any elucidation had been given, and collected a fund, by means of subscription, by which those who could be spared, might be placed in a situation to equip themselves for the campaign; whilst, as far as is known, there seems to be some foundation for the surmise that the burghers of the more remote districts had, as before, equipped themselves and taken the field at their own expense.

We are indeed gratified in being enabled to record this result, attended as it is with the prospect that should the present Commander-in-Chief be correct in his opinion, this movement will have the effect of bringing the war to a close, and of establishing a lasting peace. The continuation of the war only entails misery upon the frontier inhabitants and the colonists generally, and it is quite clear that the circumstances which have hitherto prevented the colonists from turning out in mass, have in great part contributed to the protraction of hostilities. The enemy fears none more than them, and there can be no doubt that their appearance in the fields, to support her Majesty's forces, will strike terror into his ranks which is so much needed to force him into submission; apart from the practical proof which it will afford him that there is no sympathy with himself or his cause, but on the contrary, that all are one heart and will to maintain and vindicate the violated authority of her Majesty, and readily to aid in bringing rebels back to a sense of their obligations.

To accomplish this becoming—this dutiful task, the inhabitants of the Eastern Districts have readily offered themselves. They have enabled his Excellency to make the desired moral demonstration and to show the enemy, that, independent of her troops, there is also a force within the colony ready and willing to aid her Majesty's representative in a chastisement, which he deems inevitable, with a view to the speedy termination of this tiresome and destructive war.

We have no desire at present to enter into any diffuse demonstration, to refute the direct and indirect charges, often brought against the inhabitants of the West, as if they were indifferent about their brethren on the Frontier. Numerous examples might be adduced to gainsay those charges, and none more conclusive than the large contributions which have been given at the outset of the war, without any special appeal to that effect having been made to them. The Western Province has ever shown the greatest sympathy with the fate of the border Colonists, and the number of combatants which she forwarded to the seat of danger in the previous war, can be safely quoted as a proof of that sympathy. In the present war, very wisely no general turn out on their part was required; but their sympathy on that account less? Whoever entertains this notion, should call to mind, amongst others, the great difficulties which they so readily endured, when they were repeatedly deprived of the services of their laborers, who were enrolled for service and conveyed to the seat of war; and assuredly he will admit his error.

The present appeal to assist the volunteers who have tak'n in the field, is the first call, privately or publicly made upon their generosity, and we entertain no doubt that, whatever objections may be started in the present instance, the readiness with which the burghers of the East have turned out, will induce those of the West to respond most effectively to this slight call to assist them in the common cause. Several, and perhaps the greater part of those who have gone forth, have done so at their own expense, and without entering into the propriety of the measure which required so great a sacrifice, the equity of the call to assist these cannot certainly be doubted.

From what we have just stated, our readers will sufficiently perceive that the question which will have to be considered by the Public Meeting of tomorrow, is one simply of a pecuniary nature.

The political importance which some would have attached to the Lt. Governor's invitation, is beyond our comprehension. From the border inhabitants it was required to aid the Governor in his expedition;—this demand has been complied with. From those who have not turned out, and now from the West also, it is required that they shall render pecuniary assistance to support those who have turned out;—this demand has been partially complied with by the East, and will have to be partially complied with by the West: where then is the political importance to which allusion has just been made? We can well conceive that there is a certain degree of loyalty in turning out; but by giving pecuniary assistance we only show our sympathy. If this particular be borne in mind, and all political views be excluded, we entertain no doubt but the Lt.-Governor's appeal will be responded to. By an opposite course difficulties and notions can only be occasioned wholly at variance with that object. Those who may question the correctness of this view, have but to peruse the Lt.-Governor's last circular, which, we think, will wholly remove such doubt.

On Tuesday last the Supreme Court gave judgment in the case of Enslin v. Truter, brought under review by the plaintiff, who had been condemned by the Resident Magistrate of the Paarl to pay a fine for an assault alleged to have been committed by him.

The objection on which the plaintiff founded his motion, was, that the Public Prosecutor who signed the indictment, was not present in the court at the time the trial took place, contrary to the 50th Rule enacted for the mode of procedure in criminal cases in the Court of Resident Magistrate, and which provides that "if the prosecutor do not appear on the Court day appointed for appearance the charge or complaint shall be dismissed." The same objection had been made by the plaintiff in the Magistrate's Court, but was overruled.

The same objection had been made by the plaintiff in the Magistrate's Court, but was overruled.

It is but fair to remark, that the irregularity complained of, is mainly attributable to the despotism of Mr. MONTAGU, who has in most districts, united the office of Clerk to the Peace with that of Clerk to the Civil Commissioner; and who, contrary to the above Rule, next released those officers from their obligation to be present in Court, informing them that they should merely affix their signature to such documents as might be sent to them by the Magistrate, and under whose authority they were to act.

Accounts from India, to the 7th June, have been received by the steamer Haddington, which arrived in Simon's Bay on Saturday last. The papers contain the details of the capture of another city of the Burmese, Bassein, which, after a somewhat obstinate resistance, fell into the hands of the British troops.

A very severe storm, attended with rain and wind, had raged at Calcutta during the night of the 14th of May, which had occasioned considerable loss of life and property. The vessels in the river had suffered severely. It is described as strewn with wrecks, the loss of cargo as incalculable, and that of life as most alarming.

We have not received the Bloemfontein Gazette by Monday's post. The following intelligence, appearing in the number for 31st July, has been copied from one of our contemporaries:—

In our postscript of last week, we brie fly informed our reader that, on the day of publication, Henry Green, Esq., appointed Acting British Resident, wuld take the necessary oath, on his assuming office. At 11 o'clock a.m. a respectable number of citizens attented.

J. Bidulph, Esq., the senior magistrate of the Sovereignty, previously to administering the oath, made some very appropriate remarks, and congratulated the public on Mr. Green's appointment, observing that it was not less fortunate than singular, inasmuch as the choice of the High Commissioner had fallen upon the chosen of the people; a circumstance which scarcely ever occurs in appointments to high official situations in the colonies.

Mr. Green having taken the oath, delivered the following short and pithy address:—

Having taken the oath of allegiance to my Sovereign, and sworn to do justice to all classes of her Majesty's subjects committed to my care, I wish to address a few words to the official and other gentlemen by whom I am surrounded.

The duties which I have undertaken, under the present circumstances of this country, are of the utmost responsibility, but having accepted the appointment, animated by a most earnest desire to forward the interests and happiness of the inhabitants, amongst whom I have resided for the last four years, and for whom I have contracted a most sincere regard, I trust to meet with their cordial support.

The steps lately taken by the high Commissioner and her Ministers, Commissioners, are tending to restore peace to, for some time, distracted country. It will be my task to carry out, with her Majesty's permission, the liberal measures they have initiated. In doing so, I expect the cordial co-operation of the Civil Commissioners of the several districts, and I doubt not that our joint efforts will be successful in establishing the institutions of the country upon a permanent and popular basis, and making the Sovereignty what it ought to be—the most thriving of her Majesty's possessions in South Africa.

STELLENBOSCH.
His Honor the Lieutenant Governor at Stellenbosch.

(Communicated.)

It having been generally known that the Lieutenant-Governor intended passing through Stellenbosch, on Monday, the 8th instant, on his way to Baine's Kloof, much interest was awakened amongst the inhabitants, and a desire to give him a proper reception. And on Monday morning, which happened to be as favourable a one as could have dawned, it was truly pleasant to see crowds of the most respectable inhabitants on the move to give him Honor a most hearty welcome, and to escort him to the Town—thereby also showing that, whatever character may have been attributed to them in point of political movements, they entertain a spirit of loyalty, and know how to do suitable honour to the "Powers that be," wholly irrespective of other considerations. After his Honor had visited the usual places, he received the following Address from the Inhabitants of this Town, the Commissioners of the Municipality and the Members of the Lutheran Church, which he favoured with the following replies. His Honor seemed to be very sensible of the respectful and kind reception with which he met, and to be highly pleased with most that he saw:—

To His Honor H. C. DARLING Esq. Lieutenant Governor, of the Cape of Good Hope.

Sir, We the undersigned inhabitants of Stellenbosch avail ourselves of this opportunity of congratulating your Honor on your arrival at this Town, and of expressing the high appreciation we entertain of the distinguished success of your official career in a sister Colony, being fully convinced that the same able and judicious efforts for advancing public improvement that you there evinced, and which secured you the admiration and gratitude of the inhabitants of St Lucia, will be developed in renewed vigour here, in exerting your talents, and the influence of the important station you occupy, for devising and promoting whatever means may be best calculated for increasing the wealth, prosperity, and happiness of this industrious, though comparatively poor Colony.

Jos. Hoffman, Sr. F. R. L. Neethling, Sr. F. J. Haubt-fisch, Sr., and 80 other Inhabitants.

To the Inhabitants of Stellenbosch.

Gentlemen,—I thank you sincerely for this address and I am very sensible of the kind reception I have met with in this town.

Poly alive to the responsibilities which attend my position in the Government, I may safely assert, there is none to which I attach more importance than that of endeavoring to develop by the exercise of such influence as that position may give me, the numerous resources of the colony and thus stimulating in the right directions both enterprise and industry through which the true prosperity and happiness of the community will, I am assured, be best promoted.

Stellenbosch, Aug 9, 1852.

To His Honor H. C. DARLING, Esq., Lieut. Governor, &c.
Stellenbosch, August 9, 1852.

Sir,—The Commissioners for the Municipality of Stellenbosch have the gratification in this your Honor's first visit to this town, respectively to assure your Honor of their loyalty and attachment to her Majesty's throne, appreciating her Majesty's selection of your Honor to the office of Lieutenant-Governor of this Colony.

They feel confident that the appointment of a gentleman whose Government of a Sister Colony has gained him such high reputation, and gave such general satisfaction, will greatly promote confidence and harmony among all classes of the community and conduce to the welfare and prosperity of this colony.

In concluding they beg to express their sincere wishes for the health and happiness of your Honor and family, and have the honor to remain your Honor's faithful and humble Servants,

P. J. BOSMAN, Chairman.

To the Commissioners of the Municipality of Stellenbosch.

Gentlemen,—I beg you to believe that it required no assurance on your part to induce me to give ample credit for loyalty and attachment to the throne to the Municipal Body of this Town.

I cannot but be gratified by the allusion you are pleased to make to my previous public services, and I can assure you, that, if anxious endeavours to discharge the duties of my office, with a single view to the benefit of the community, can ensure success, I may reasonably hope to justify in some degree the confidence you do me enough to place in me.

I thank you for the good wishes with which you conclude your address, and heartily reciprocate them towards your selves.

Stellenbosch, 9th August 1852.

[The Address of the Lutheran Congregation will be given in our next.]

AUG. 9, 1852.—This day a scene occurred here, the like of which the oldest inhabitants do not remember to have witnessed. At half past 12 o'clock it became generally known that Lt. Governor Darling, with the Acting Secretary to Government, the Surveyor General and some other gentlemen were on their way from Stellenbosch to the Paar, on a tour to Worcester. At 10 o'clock vehicles and an escort were seen to issue from every quarter and to proceed in the direction whence the Lt. Governor was expected. On the limits of the Municipal Commissioner and the other gentleman accompanying them, halted, as, although the view was open for three miles, nothing could yet be discovered. In the mean time the number of vehicles and horsemen increased, until it amounted to about 200 persons! About half past 3 o'clock a carriage was espied in the distance, and the cavalcade went forward to meet it. It was overtaken at Van Wyk's River, where the Civil Commissioner welcomed the Lt. Governor with alacrity, in the use of the inhabitants. His Honor having again stepped into his carriage, the procession went forward and entered the village under a dense fire of musketry from both sides of the street. On approaching Gird's Hotel, the usual artillery point was set. On front of Gird's Hotel there was such a congegation of people from every rank and station in society, as was never before witnessed.

When the Lt. Governor had ascended the steps of Gird's Hotel, he was cheered by the multitude, upon which His Honor, in a kind and hearty manner thanked them for the respect shown to him in nearly the following terms:

Gentlemen,—I thank you for the hearty and cordial reception I have received from you this day. I regret that from the arrangements which have been made, my stay will be very short among you, but I hope ere long to return to this pretty village, when I shall have an opportunity to become more acquainted with the natural capabilities of this place and its inhabitants. I am convinced of your loyalty towards her Majesty the Queen, and I will trust you will show your good feeling towards your fellow Colonists on the Frontier, who have been for a considerable time suffering from war and bloodshed, while in this place industry, prosperity and peace seem to prevail.

The Commissioners of the Paar Municipality having learnt that His Honor would start again within a few minutes for Wellington, waited upon him and presented the following address:

To His Honor Lieutenant Governor DARLING.

The Commissioners of the Municipality of the Paar beg leave to offer to your Honor their sincere and heartfelt welcome to this division, and to make known their satisfaction at having this opportunity of personally expressing their loyalty to our Gracious Sovereign, and our respect for your Honor.

They gratefully appreciate her Maj-sty's decision to entrust the civil administration of this settlement to so distinguished an officer, and fervently hope that under your Honor's administration the prosperity of this division, and the colony in general, may be duly promoted.

We have the honor to be,

J. P. MINNAAR,
I. J. N. DE VILLIERS,
G. L. STUYLER, Gz.
D. A. DE VILLIERS,
J. J. MINNAAR,
Paar, August 9, 1852.

His Honor briefly replied, but as there was no short hand writer present in the room, I cannot give you the reply. It is said, however, that on his return His Honor will furnish a written reply. If so, I shall endeavour to forward you a copy.—CORRESPONDENT.

The following is copied from CLARK & SON'S Circular of 9th June 1852:—

CAPE WINES.—IMPORTATION AND DELIVERIES.—The total Import in 1851 was 407,162 gallons, which, compared with the previous year, is a large increase of 172,383 gallons; 1850 showing a falling off in the import of 29,327 gallons, compared with 1849.

The Home Delivery was 234,672 gallons, being a decrease of 11,460 gallons.

The Export Delivery was 3,023 gallons.

STOCKS IN BOND.—The Total Stock in Bond on the 6th January, 1852, was 496,839 gallons, which is a large increase compared with the stock on 5th January, 1851, of 1,9,961 gallons. The London portion of the Stock was 285,683 gallons, and the Country portion, 210,676 gallons. The former being an increase of 138,651 gallons, and the latter of 31,310 gallons.

The London Stock on 30th April, was 3,277 pipes. This is very large, being nearly double the usual average.

VINTAGE & MARKERS.—The yield of the last vintage at the Cape was a good average, and the quality of the Wines is well spoken of; not any of them have yet arrived in this country.

Our Market here has been much depressed throughout the year, and prices have ruled so low as to be wholly unremunerative to the shippers and importers.

The continued decline in the Home Delivery, combined with the large Imports, is sufficient to account for this depression; at present, prices do not shew any signs of improvement, but it must not be overlooked that the prospect of an advance in the price of low Sherries is calculated to improve Capes, unless the excessive supplies counteract it. It is probable that these supplies may be materially checked, as we learn
