CAPE TOWN, SEPTEMBER 8, 1848. The following is a summary of the events of the past week in the Cape Colony:

A recent letter from Mr. J. H. Macartney, Esq., of the Cape Colony, has been received at this office. In his letter, Mr. Macartney expresses his regret at the recent disturbances in the Cape Colony, and declares that he is firmly convinced that the Government of the Cape is capable of maintaining order and tranquillity.

The Cape Colony has been the scene of much commotion and unrest during the past week. There has been a considerable increase in the number of disturbances, and the situation is regarded as critical. The Government has taken stringent measures to restore order and tranquillity, and the authorities are ready to meet any further disturbances with force.
