

CAPE TOWN, JULY 10, 1881.

The last accounts from the frontier are of a most unfavorable nature, depicting a scene of confusion and anarchy unparalleled in the pages of colonial history.

The disturbances which, according to the bold assertion of the Commander-in-Chief, would have been efficiently quelled in a fortnight, are still raging at the end of six months with unabated vigour.

The extracts from the frontier papers, appearing in our present number, will furnish ample proof that this is no exaggeration, but a description conveying but a faint idea of the intense misery in which the absence of precaution and vigorous measures has plunged our frontier.

Whether the course adopted was the best to bring these men—whose good services were until then admitted and applauded—to their senses, there is much reason to doubt; but it is quite certain that unwillingness in a volunteer can hardly be extinguished by a display of violence.

The extraordinary proceedings at Graham's Town, detailed in the extract copied from the local Journal, elsewhere inserted, will no doubt lead to a strict judicial investigation, as well as to the punishment, it is to be hoped, of those who did not scruple to apply the torch to the habitations of those who had not been convicted of any crime.

We are quite willing to make every allowance for the feelings which may have got the ascendancy over the reason of those engaged in this work of incendiarism, at the sight of the mangled corpses then brought into their town.

But what effect are such proceedings likely to have upon the mind of the Hottentots? We have seen it repeated over and over again by the Graham's Town press, that the Hottentots contemplated setting fire to the town; but instead of that the white inhabitants lay in ashes "the huts and houses" of these Hottentots.

Let it not be said that we wish to be considered apologists for the Hottentots. Such a reflection would be ill applicable in a case where the rights of British subjects are concerned. The law recognizes no distinction of person.

Had the Magistrate's warrant been acted upon, and the Hottentots merely deprived of their arms and ammunition, not a voice would have been raised against a proceeding so judicious, and for which there seems to have been ample reason.

When shall virtue succeed vice? Echo says—when?

but only to the forcible expulsion of the Hottentots, presuming it to have been effected by competent authority, after due conviction.

Having referred to the large amount of guns and ammunition seized on the occasion in question, it may be as well to enquire, how the Hottentots came in possession of the same?

In the war of 1846, Sir PERCEVAL MAITLAND proclaimed that he would punish with death those selling ammunition to the natives.

The Magistrate's notices, referred to in the above, are three in number—the first enjoins those who have possessed themselves of property belonging to the Hottentots, to hand them over to his office on pain of prosecution.

A very urgent and feeling appeal of the inhabitants of the Kaga, appears in another part of this paper. There can be no doubt of the intricate state of affairs on the border, and we therefore recommend this appeal to the serious consideration of those to whom it is addressed.

The Government Gazette of this day contains a Circular, addressed, by order of His Excellency, to the several Resident Magistrates in the Western Districts, requesting them to use their best endeavours to enrol thousand Volunteers, young, able-bodied and strong men, to prosecute the present Kafir war.

As soon as the wives and mothers of their husbands and sons heard that some of them would decline to re-join their former captors and return to their homes, they came together and formed themselves into a deputation, begging His Excellency, but to remain as long as he may require their services.

FRONTIER AFFAIRS. (From the Cape Frontier Times, July 1.)

A Goshak Kafir named Boosac, who was lately captured near Trompsburg, and has been examined by the Clerk of the Peace here, avers that the Thoposia Kaffirs, along with a large force of other Hottentots and Kafirs, are now in the Fish River bush, about 5 miles from Trompsburg in the direction of the Chief Stock.

The following deposition made by ashopkeeper in Graham's Town last week, affords, we fear, a tolerable sample of the feeling which generally pervades the class of people indicated.

"Yesterday afternoon the prisoner came into my shop, he looked as if he had been drinking, and asked me for a penny worth of dagga. He had two other Cape Corps men with him; they went out of the shop prisoner remaining behind, and came up to me, and asked me if I knew why the men went away? I said, no; he said, they were 'ic'ens, and wanted him to be one too, which he would not consent to."

Mr. John Carlisle, of Belmont, had a gun snappd at him on Saturday night, within a short distance of his own house (Belmont), as he was proceeding home from town. There are Hottentot huts near the spot where this attempt was made to shoot him.

these horses, and caught two of Mr. Carlisle's Hottentots not far from the house, and after questioning them, for some time about the state of the town, &c., wished them to remain about the stolen horses and go with them to the Fish River bush, which they called their home.

Yesterday between 10 and 11 p.m., an alarm was given in town, that a body of 2000 Hottentots and Kafirs were not far from Fort England; this caused a great commotion in one quarter of the town; children were taken from their beds, and removed in the cold, to a safer place than the family dwelling.

TUESDAY.—There is no intelligence from the patrol that left King William's Town on the 24th ult. Firing, it is said, was heard on Thursday and Friday in the direction it had been committed, but the exact position of the 20th ult. in which the 74th charged the enemy in gallant style, and Mr. Bruce of this regiment, was wounded in the hand, but not badly.

It will be seen by the above extract that the casualties on our side have been severe. The C.M.R. detachment, in their recent operations, actually came to the 74th and asked them for tobacco. General Somerset is to attack the enemy again on the 28th ultimo.

(From the G. T. Journal Extra, July 1.) The military express which came in yesterday from King William's Town brought intelligence from that quarter to the 29th ult. The following are the chief points of interest.

On the 28th heavy firing was heard in the direction of the Amatola, and a report had been received that the Burcher force under the command of Capt. Tylden, and which was moving by Windberg, had taken a great number of cattle, chiefly oxen. It was further stated, that numbers of Kafirs were abandoning the Amatola and retiring to the Kys, where there is an immense tract of fine uncultivated country.

The following extract will show the spirit in which the 74th did the work allotted to them. The 74th had descended to the left of S.E. and crossing the valley, were seen ascending the crest of Amatola in good order.

DISARMING OF THE HOTTENTOTS OF GRAHAM'S TOWN. In our Saturday's issue, we reported that the bodies of the two men of the European levies, who had been murdered so barbarously in the Queen's Road the day previous by Rebel Hottentots, had been brought into town by a party who came to the same time, had declared that a Hottentot committed the murder.

In our Saturday's issue, we reported that the bodies of the two men of the European levies, who had been murdered so barbarously in the Queen's Road the day previous by Rebel Hottentots, had been brought into town by a party who came to the same time, had declared that a Hottentot committed the murder.

The suspicions excited by this case, added greatly to the prevalent expectation, and a demand was then made that the whole of the Hottentot huts should be searched. It was said had been from the spot in the Queen's Road where the two men were observed firing, the report of six or seven persons had been further said that several of the Hottentots were men who were of a violent and excited nature.

This was no sooner understood than a rush was made to the localities in question. Near Fort England the seizure of many guns replaced of convenience and of a good deal of powder and lead, added great joy to the excitement.

great length, and with high-sounding encouragement, the many budding Wellingtons there feasting at its spread. It was well indeed for Sir Harry not to forget the anniversary of Waterloo this year. In future years he will, according to his own General Order, have to celebrate so many brilliant affairs of his own experience in Kafirland, and when he himself played the mighty Wellington, that the little fight of Waterloo may then be overlooked!

By the bye there is something additional under the head of intelligence from head-quarters—something about "spades and sickles." It cannot be that Sir Harry hung the end of his tent in which the spread was given with the sword beaten into a ploughshare, and the spear into a pruning-hook—the sacred emblems that war was to be no more in Kafirland.

N. E. BOUNDARY. (From the Friend of the Sovereign, June 23.) The British Resident and Major Donovan, with a few Burgheers, left Bloemfontein on Tuesday morning last, for Taba's Nchu; from which place we believe the Resident intended to proceed with his whole force of troops, and Native allies, to meet the Chief Moshesh. We trust all matters in dispute will be settled amicably.

We have been favoured with the copy of a letter addressed by the chief Moshesh to the Rev. D. Keek, Beersheba, dated 9th June instant, which we here publish.

The letter is as follows:—"Moshesh desires you would tell David Mokoti, Caleb, and all the people reading on the Missionary Station of Beersheba, that he highly disapproves of your conduct, and that it is his will that all which has been stolen by him shall forthwith be restored, as soon as you have taken cognizance of this letter, he so kind as to forward it to the Rev. L. Cochet, who is interested in the matter.

We learn that the Resident Magistrate of Wilburg has fined two Boers in that district in the sum of £20 each, for refusing to proceed with the commando against Moshesh. It is said that many Boers in all the districts, declare that they will pay the fine over and over again, and even throw up the sponge and trek rather than serve on those commandos.

APPEAL OF THE INHABITANTS OF THE KAGA. Kaga, 12th June, 1881.

FELLOW COLONISTS!—To you would we address ourselves, who are perhaps congratulating yourselves that you are living in peace and harmony, who, living at a distance, may at times hear of the deadly struggle upon our borders.

Have not appeals for help reached some of you, and yet you remain still? How long will you sit in supineness. How long will it be before your better feelings are aroused? Are you fathers or brothers? Then what would be your thoughts, did you but see one of your dear relations leaving you in the morning in the full vigour and prime of manhood, brought home before you a lifeless corpse; or to see one of your oldest friends shot down at your side by savages, and to have to return to his house with the heart-rending intelligence that his children are fatherless, that his wife is a widow? To behold the fruits of your industry destroyed by the ruthless spoiler; your herds swept off by barbarians; your homes reduced to a blackened heap of ruins; are those imaginary scenes? Assuredly not; these, alas! are tragic events that are becoming of daily occurrence.

Our best and bravest are being cut off by the enemy—our means of subsistence carried away before our eyes—the authors of our ruin are even now howling about our doors, and there are none to help!

Are we not of the same kindred? Do not the same blood run in our veins? Have we not the same interests? Do we not call the same country our own? If we are not to stand? If the frontier is destroyed, will it not be at our thresholds? Let them then who have the feelings of men, those who can be inspired by the love of country, seize their arms, and come forward to the front to succour their fellow-countrymen—to rescue them from starvation—the brave from an untimely fate.

VICTORIA. Our little village has been thrown into a state of excitement by the threats and preparations of the adjacent Pramburg Kafirs.

A few days ago two head of cattle were stolen from the farm of Mr. Kotze, and the apoor taken to their haunts, where both skin and part of the flesh were found. Mr. K. accordingly applied to the Police-magistrate to have the thieves apprehended. Mr. Kotze, P. G., proceeded thither accompanied by some farm-bosses, and was met by about 30 armed Kafirs who acknowledged that the cattle had been stolen, but refused to deliver up the thieves, saying the stealing of the cattle was a sign of war.

SIR HARRY'S "SPREAD." (From the Eastern Province News, June 23.) A correspondent of the Frontier Times mentions as the only news worthy of note from Head Quarters, that Sir Harry had "given a spread" to his officers on the anniversary of Waterloo.

Considering the important events in which the General and his officers have lately been engaged in Kafirland, we can imagine that Sir Harry availed himself of the favorable occasion to harangue at great length, and with high-sounding encouragement, the many budding Wellingtons there feasting at its spread. It was well indeed for Sir Harry not to forget the anniversary of Waterloo this year. In future years he will, according to his own General Order, have to celebrate so many brilliant affairs of his own experience in Kafirland, and when he himself played the mighty Wellington, that the little fight of Waterloo may then be overlooked!

By the bye there is something additional under the head of intelligence from head-quarters—something about "spades and sickles." It cannot be that Sir Harry hung the end of his tent in which the spread was given with the sword beaten into a ploughshare, and the spear into a pruning-hook—the sacred emblems that war was to be no more in Kafirland.

N. E. BOUNDARY. (From the Friend of the Sovereign, June 23.) The British Resident and Major Donovan, with a few Burgheers, left Bloemfontein on Tuesday morning last, for Taba's Nchu; from which place we believe the Resident intended to proceed with his whole force of troops, and Native allies, to meet the Chief Moshesh. We trust all matters in dispute will be settled amicably.

The letter is as follows:—"Moshesh desires you would tell David Mokoti, Caleb, and all the people reading on the Missionary Station of Beersheba, that he highly disapproves of your conduct, and that it is his will that all which has been stolen by him shall forthwith be restored, as soon as you have taken cognizance of this letter, he so kind as to forward it to the Rev. L. Cochet, who is interested in the matter. Mr. Cochet will have the kindness to call upon you, and to read this letter to them in Moshesh's name. He enjoins restoration. He wants also to know the names of those persons who have said, that the Fingoes or others must be set up. Did Moshesh ever give such an order? Has not on the contrary always declared, that the Fingoes living in his country, ought to be considered as part of the community and be treated as such? Why do they transgress his orders? In whose name are they doing it? He insists on being well informed on those points."

We learn that the Resident Magistrate of Wilburg has fined two Boers in that district in the sum of £20 each, for refusing to proceed with the commando against Moshesh. It is said that many Boers in all the districts, declare that they will pay the fine over and over again, and even throw up the sponge and trek rather than serve on those commandos. It is no doubt extremely harassing to farmers, to be called upon, during this season of the year, to leave their homes and take the field against an enemy with whom they have no quarrel, and in a case in which they declare they have no interest. Whilst we would not justify the backwardness of those who hold their farms on condition of doing their duty when called upon, we are nevertheless convinced that the authorities on command must be sufficiently aware of the emergencies of the Sovereign's service, and the progress of the Country will be greatly retarded. We think that a couple hundreds of British Cavalry (in place of the Cape Corps) and an efficient complement of Artillery, stationed in the Sverevicly the police of the country could be maintained, without at any time calling on the Boers. The English portion of the community would at all times, be ready to answer any reasonable demand on their services.

The Natal post arrived last night. By it we have the independence of the 5th June, but the Witness has not arrived. From the Independent we learn that His Honor the Judge, Governor of Natal, had issued a proclamation calling out a mounted burgher force to accompany the Native Contingent, which had been levied in that District, for the purpose of being despatched to the assistance of Her Majesty's forces, now contending with the Kafirs on the Frontier of the Cape Colony. The mounted force will consist of 100 men, 1 Captain and 2 lieutenants. An allowance of £25 is offered to each man to provide a horse, &c.

CIVIL versus MILITARY GOVERNORS. (Continued.) The great improvement that has taken place in Ceylon and Mauritius shows decidedly the advantages of a Civil Government over one of those Military Governors who it has been too much the fashion of England to install as a reward for past services. After a man has spent the best of his days in the army, when he is too old for further service, and when they find it difficult to find him useful employment at home, he is appointed to a colony as if it was an appropriate place for his old age, and tolerably expensive play-thing they have proved to be for Grandmother England; but it is all her own fault, if she gives such toys to her favored children, and cannot expect anything else than that they will break them, and what might have been useful as well as ornamental in Old Goody's drawing room is quickly smashed by the children of an older growth, that she has entrusted with the keeping of them.

What life can be more unfitted than the army to train up a discipline and obedience, a man all his life accustomed to the rest of the machinery move by, and where the Garrison Orders are like the laws of the Medes and Persians, such a man is no more fitted to enter upon the government of a free colony than he is of flying to the moon. It will erer be the same as long as England adopts the system of rewarding old General Officers with the government of a colony.

A new order of things is likely to take place and the old fashions of the Colonial Office are to be swept away for something more modern and useful, we will get Governors sent out better trained in the political school and with less pliancy about them, men who can guide a free people, and who can legislate without bombast, and who will represent our Gracious Queen without fear and nonsense.

The origin of the present war is involved in a greater mystery than any former one, and it only shows that the old Cape Colony government is more unfit for this colony than at any former period; that gross ignorance of the real state of the country existed up to the actual breaking out of hostilities; a wide spread rebellion is also added to our other difficulties which has been engendered and matured without the Government knowing anything at all about the matter.
