THE ZULU-AFRICAN.

CAPE TOWN, April 28, 1844.

For a month past the Zulu king of the Zulus, Lord Charles Grey, has been making his way towards the Cape. He is accompanied by a large number of his followers, and the object of his visit is said to be to strengthen the native administration, and to give the British Government an opportunity of showing the Zulus that they are not deserted by their British protectors.

The king is expected to arrive at the Cape in the course of the next week, and his reception will be a matter of great interest to the inhabitants of the colony.

In the meantime, the Government is making arrangements to receive the king with due ceremony, and to give him an opportunity of expressing his views on the affairs of the country.

The Zulu king is expected to stay in the colony for several months, and it is anticipated that he will be of great service to the Government in its dealings with the Zulus.

It is hoped that the king will be able to bring about a lasting peace between the Zulu and the British Government, and to establish friendly relations between the two nations.

The Government is making every effort to ensure the success of the king's visit, and is confident that the Zulus will be impressed by the kindness shown to them by the British.
