To the Electors of Cape Town and Green Point.

GENTLEMEN,—It was with much regret that I heard the news of the sudden death of Mr. B. H. de Mondlav, one of the oldest and most respected citizens of this Colony. His name will ever be remembered with respect and affection by all who knew him, and his memory will be cherished as a model of virtue and humanity.

He had been a faithful servant of the community, and his untimely death is a great loss to the Colony. His contributions to the welfare of this country will not soon be forgotten.

In this time of mourning, let us remember the importance of promoting the well-being of our community, and let us honor the memory of Mr. de Mondlav by continuing his example of service and dedication.

Sincerely yours,
