COTTON CULTURE.

The cultivation of cotton will receive a material and most favorable impulse from the recent decision of the House of Commons in favor of a bounty of 1s. 6d. per pound on cotton yarn in the hands of spinners. The bounty is calculated upon the amount of yarn that has actually been spun, and it will, in fact, mean a bounty of £2 10s. per ton. There are many cotton growers in this country who have been looking forward to this decision with the hope that it would bring about a revival of the cotton trade. The decision has been received with great satisfaction, and there is every reason to believe that it will have a beneficial effect upon the cotton trade and the general prosperity of the country.

The House of Commons has also agreed to a resolution that the bounty should be extended to the cultivation of cotton in the United States. This is a step in the right direction, and it is to be hoped that other countries will follow the example of the United States in this matter.

The decision of the House of Commons is a matter of great importance, and it is to be hoped that it will have a beneficial effect upon the cotton trade and the general prosperity of the country.

Mr. Secretary Johnstone, in his speech in the House of Commons, said that the decision of the House was based upon the belief that the bounty would do good to the cotton trade and to the general prosperity of the country. He said that the bounty would do good to the cotton trade and to the general prosperity of the country.
