THE ROYAL.

"The Melody Man."

"The Melody Man," the all-talking Columbia musical drama, which opens at the Royal on Monday next, is the screen version of the famous stage play which scored a sensational success on account of the great human interest appeal of its story. A beautiful romance has been built up on the interesting subject of the conflict of the classics and jazz, and it will prove to be an intensely dramatic screen offering.

William Collier, Junr., Alice Day and John St. Polis enact the leading roles, while prominent support is given by Mildred Harris, Johnny Walker, Tenen Holtz and Lee Kohlmar.

THE GRAND.

There is a treat in store for patrons on Monday at the Grand when a double feature programme will be presented. Leatrice Joy and John Boles will be seen in a comedy-drama, "Man Made Woman." The story is a woman's fight to prevent her individuality as a wife from being submerged in that of her husband, yet seeking to retain his love and trust. It is novel, thrilling and entertaining and a picture that will be enjoyed by all who see it. In addition Bebe Daniels will be seen in a comedy-drama, "Take Me Home." A story dealing with life and love behind the footlights.

THE ASTORIA.

Reginald Denny's First Talkie.

On Monday the Astoria, Woodstock, reverts to one session nightly at 8.10 p.m. Two sessions on Saturday at 7 and 9 p.m.

"What a Man" commences on Monday. Denny, silent or talking, is an engaging personality, always full of pleasant surprises, always distinctive, always charming. He has a nice voice, and, being an Englishman, it is free from the nasal accents one is accustomed often to hear in American speech.

"What a Man" is all about a wealthy young lady who has a soft spot for tramps. She picks up young Wade Rawlins and raises him to the exalted position of her chauffeur. The act causes not only consternation in the family, but rouses it to repeated insults. But Rawlins is not what he seems—that is where the nice little romance steps in, and leaves a young couple in each other's arms.

Delightful comedy situations, amusing dialogue, and such outstanding parts as the English butler (played by Charles Coleman), Harvey Clark as the father, and Anita Louise as the child actress. More than any member of the family, the butler is indignant at the entrance into the service of the supposed tramp. There is no doubt about the complete success of Reginald Denny's first talkie.
