THE OPERA HOUSE.

Theodore Dreiser's "Jennie Gerhardt" at the Opera House to-day and to-morrow is certainly a film to be seen and as a dramatic masterpiece it ranks with the outstanding pictures of the year.

For three days only, Monday to Wednesday next, the Opera House should be crowded when the Jewish comedy "Money Talks" is shown. The picture stars the famous Hebrew comedian Julian Rose (Levinsky) who appears as Abe Pilstein.

Abe and his daughter Rosie run a dress shop in Magenta Street, but business is so bad that Schnitzer, their wholesaler, sells them up. Hymie Burkowitz, an old friend and rival, sorry for Abe, gives him £500 for the goodwill of his business, but Rosie believes he is behind all the trouble and snubs Hymie's son, Morris, who is in love with her.

The tense climax of this comedy, which culminates in a terrific boxing match and a wedding, will keep filmgoers enthralled, as Abe's comical efforts to lose his money will convulse them. Supporting Rose is Judy Kelly, the vivacious B.I.P. protegee, as his daughter; Kid Berg, the famous boxing champion, makes his screen debut as Morris, and Griffiths Jones, another newcomer, appears as Jimmy Dale.

THE MAJESTIC.

To-night and to-morrow (Saturday) the Majestic shows "So Big," a fine drama. On Monday and Tuesday they will show Joan Bennett in "The Careless Lady," a wonderful romance. On Wednesday and Thursday a fine British musical show will be seen with Cicely Courtneidge called "Aunt Sally." This is a great show. On Friday and Saturday a magnificent drama full of big thrills, "The Secret of the Blue Room" will be shown. A fine week of excellent film fare, not to be missed by anyone.

Capetown Orchestra Activities.

To-morrow evening's concert in the City Hall will be a combined performance with the Boy Scouts' Association when a magnificent programme will be submitted. The Jae Trio will again be heard in music and song, E. D. Madden will sing popular numbers as will the Orpheus Male Voice Quartette; Mr. Geoff Shackle will sing "The Open Road"; Miss Rose Mitchell will sing "Land of Hope and Glory" and community singing will be conducted by Bernard Hand, the popular community singing conductor. In addition a broadcasting sketch will be presented by four Scouters and the Orchestra will render appropriate Scouty music.

A special Armistice Commemoration evening will be given in the City Hall on Sunday night at 8.30. The Defence Force will have a battalion of men and the Cape Town Highlanders will also be present on this occasion. Miss Violet Turnbull (contralto) will sing "O Rest in the Lord" and "There is no Death." The Municipal Choir will sing Elgar's "For the Fallen" with Myfanwy Meyers as soloist and Stanford's "Last Post." There will be a few moments spent with the soldier poets of 1914-1918 whose poems will be delivered by Gladys Lazarus, Monica Dolphin and Riva Cooper, who will endeavour to convey, simply, the difference in outlook between the high hearted enthusiasm of the youthful soldiers of 1914, who only understood the glamour of war, and cold awakening to the horrors and the futility of war which came to them in 1918 after their four years of hardened experience. Hymns to be sung are "Abide with me" and "O God, our Help in ages past."

Owing to the Orchestra being engaged to play for "La Boheme" at the Opera House, there will be a chamber concert in the City Hall at 8.15 p.m.

Omission.

We regret that the name of Mrs. H. J. Stodel was omitted from the list of names of the committee responsible for the arrangements for the annual ball of the Cape Jewish Aged Home.
