

Final Moiseiwitsch Concert

The concert at the Colosseum theatre on Sunday evening last deeply impressed a large and discerning musical audience, when Mr. Moiseiwitsch—the celebrated pianist—gave the second recital of his present season.

There were some masterful renderings of the compositions of Rachmaninoff, Stravinsky and Debussy, and the artist gave as a final part of his excellent programme Brahms' "Imaginative Variations" on a theme by Paganini.

In spite of his fine playing of other works, Mr. Moiseiwitsch is essentially the great Chopin player of to-day. His items by this composer were rendered in a masterly way which made the deepest impression. On Sunday night, the 24th inst., Mr. Moiseiwitsch will be heard in a more popular programme at the Colosseum theatre—this being his final concert in Johannesburg.

"RHODES" AT THE COLOSSEUM.

"Rhodes," the great British film depicting the life and achievements of Cecil Rhodes, is the present attraction at the Colosseum theatre. The film has as its background magnificent views of the veld and the diamond rush to Kimberley is very realistic. Walter Huston plays the role of Cecil Rhodes with an excellent understanding of the great man's temperament, whose one idea was to advance his country's interests. Oscar Homolka is convincing as Paul Kruger, as are Basil Sydney and Frank Cellier as Dr. Jameson and Barney Barnato respectively. The character of King Lobengula, at whose orders Rhodes was buried with full native honours, is superbly portrayed by Ndansia Kumalo who comes from Matabeleland.
