Last Week of "Land of Smiles"

Franz Lehar's colourful and romantic opera, "Land of Smiles," is entering into its last week at the Empire Theatre. Richard Tauber, the celebrated tenor, is heard to great advantage in a number of beautiful songs, and his duets with Mara Losseff are well worth hearing. The production is on a lavish scale, and there is some beautiful scenery and effects.

This will be the last opportunity of seeing Richard Tauber in the leading part in this operetta. Charles Manning directs the orchestra, which plays a large part in the success of the performance.

Around the Cinemas

"They Made Me A Criminal" at the Plaza

John Garfield plays the leading role of a professional boxer, who becomes a fugitive from justice, in the film "They Made Me a Criminal" now showing at the Plaza Theatre. With Claude Rains in the role of a somewhat discredited detective, and the Six Dead End Kids responsible for a lot of amusement, the picture is an interesting one and should draw large audiences. The supporting programme includes a technicolour film of unusual subjects and Jennifer Leigh in songs at the piano.

Attractions at the Metro

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer have produced a startling and thought-provoking production in "On Borrowed Time," the film attraction at the Metro Theatre. Lionel Barrymore and Sir Cedric Hardwicke take the leading roles, and they are ably supported by Una Merkel and Nat Pendleton. Commencing Friday, Joe E. Brown and Leo Carrillo, the well known comedians, will be featured in "Flirting with Fate," a picture full of humour and laughter. The supporting programme is interesting and Archie Parkhouse entertains at the Wurlitzer.

"Dodge City" at the Colosseum

"Dodge City," the picture that starts where the "Union Pacific" left off, is the attraction at the Colosseum this week. Warner Bros. claim to have produced a super epic in technicolour in this production, and with Errol Flynn, Olivia de Havilland, Frank McHugh, Alan Hale and Bruce Cabot in the main roles, the picture provides adventure of the kind that will appeal to all cinema patrons. The news items and shorts add to a most interesting programme.
