A TAUBER EVENING

Enthusiasm at the Colosseum

Those who attended the Richard Tauber concert at the Colosseum Theatre on Sunday evening were well rewarded. It was an evening of rich music played by the combined Broadcasting and Colosseum Orchestras.

The highlight of the evening was the conducting by Richard Tauber. This is the first occasion upon which this gifted musical personality appeared with a baton in Johannesburg. He proved himself to be a brilliant conductor, who controlled his players admirably and secured from them a wonderful precision as well as fine performance. Mr. Tauber also conducted a composition of his own and demonstrated himself to be a composer of no mean merit.

His singing was inspired. Never was he in better form and the audience would not permit him to go. Again and again he had to satisfy them with encores, until finally he sang "You Are My Heart's Delight." This was the last item on an impressive programme. The enthusiasm prevailing was of a nature which must have greatly pleased the artist—accustomed as he no doubt is to enthusiastic audiences all over the world.

Around the Cinemas

"Bachelor Mother" at the Colosseum

R.K.O. Radio pictures present an entirely new role for Ginger Rogers, in "Bachelor Mother," the attraction at the Colosseum Theatre this week. In this hilariously enacted comedy, Ginger Rogers is supported in the leading role by David Niven. An added attraction in the preliminary programme will be the appearance of Jose Malone, a celebrated Covent Garden soprano in conjunction with the Colosseum Orchestra. The latest topical pictures of the Western Front will also be shown.

Attractions at the Plaza Theatre

Ann Sheridan, supported by an old favourite, Zasu Pitts, and a galaxy of artists, is seen in Warner Bros.' new swing comedy, "Naughty But Nice," at the Plaza Theatre to-night. Commencing to-morrow "Man About Town" will be the new attraction. In this, Paramount's lively musical, Jack Benny, Dorothy Lamour, Binnie Barnes, Edward Arnold and Betty Grable, contribute some excellent acting. The supporting programme of the latest war films, shorts, etc., is up to the usual high standard.

"The Women" at the Metro

One hundred and thirty-five women take part in the new show at the Metro Theatre this week, entitled "The Women." In this, the most talked of comedy of the year, Norma Shearer, Joan Crawford, Rosalind Russell and Paulette Goddard will head the large cast. The preliminary programme consists of the latest war news, shorts, and Archie Parkhouse entertains in his usual efficient manner, at the Wurlitzer.

Mr. S. Strelitz Leaves Fort Beaufort

The Fort Beaufort, Adelaide and District Zionist and Benevolent Society will be the poorer for the departure from the district of its energetic and devoted President, Mr. S. Strelitz, whose services to the Zionist cause and to every other phase of communal work have been of the highest value and have been a great factor in securing the exemplary record of harmonious and successful effort which this little community has shown over a long period of years.

Mr. Strelitz is succeeded in the chair of the society by Mr. S. Galgut, of Adelaide, who for more years than can be recalled has been a tower of strength in Zionist work in the district, and was always Mr. Strelitz's chief collaborator.
