Camera Portrait by Olga Baswitz, London.

MISS JOAN HEYMAN

Miss Joan Heymann will be the guest of honour at a concert to be given by the Jewish Dramatic Section at the Guild, Johannesburg, on Wednesday, the 13th inst., at one o'clock. Miss Heymann, who has returned from abroad, will speak on her experiences of the theatrical world in London.

On her departure overseas several years ago, Miss Heymann was closely associated with the activities of the Jewish Guild Dramatic Section, of which she was one of its most energetic and hard-working producers. She has just taken the production of the next play to be staged by the section, which will take place towards the end of February.

Members desirous of attending the concert are asked to telephone the Secretary at the earliest opportunity, as accommodation for this occasion is strictly limited.

Around the Cinemas

"The Old Maid" at the Colosseum

Warner Bros. have scored an outstanding triumph in their production of "The Old Maid" being shown at the Colosseum Theatre this week. Bette Davis and Miriam Hopkins give the finest performances of their careers in the leading roles and they are ably supported by George Brent. Nobody will fail to be impressed with this amazing screen production. The rest of the programme, consisting of latest war news, shorts and Charles Manning and his orchestra, is up to the usual high standard.

"The Lion Has Wings" at the Plaza

Alexander Korda has given the screen something new by combining a record of events with an adventurous story based on the Kiel raid and imaginary German raids on Britain in "The Lion Has Wings," showing at the Plaza Theatre this week. Ralph Richardson and Merle Oberon play their roles in the film merely to link the scenes together. Adolph Hitler figures prominently in the film, the scenes mainly being culled from news reels over a period. The supporting programme is very good.

"Hell Below" at the Metro

A gripping drama of the undersea is presented in "Hell Below," now showing at the Metro Theatre. In this story of submarine warfare, Robert Montgomery, Robert Young, Walter Huston and Jimmy Durante play leading roles. The preliminary part of the programme with the screening of the latest overseas news, shorts and Archie Parkhouse at the Wurlitzer completes excellent entertainment.
