A TOTAL ECLIPSE

The only way totally to eclipse the worries of these difficult days is a change of environment. In the mountains there is solitude, at the seaside—gaiety; angling in the sea or in trout streams is a wonderful tonic to tune up frayed nerves, and, who can resist seeing the Cape and Natal countryside ablaze with colourful flora in Spring?

We have inclusive booking arrangements with hotel, residential and guest-house establishments throughout Southern Africa, and are able to fulfil all requirements to suit your inclination and your pocket.

FINE VARIETY CONCERT

The concert held at the Selborne Hall on Saturday evening, the 31st ult., in aid of the Belgian Relief Fund, proved very successful, there being a large audience present. The concert was organised by Madame Juliette Schonfrucht and Madame N. Furstenburg. Mr. Eric Egan was the Compère for the evening and he kept the audience in good humour.

Eugene Magid (Violin), Phyllis Chaplin (Cello) and Suzanne Margolis (Piano) gave a pleasant rendering of L'arlesienne (Angus Dei) by Bizet-Kreisler. Songs were rendered by Gordon Kinghorn, Suzanne Clapperton and Madame Juliette Schonfrucht. Miss May Edouin, the well-known comedienne, amused the audience with her characterisations. Alice Goeminne showed herself to be a capable diseuse, and Gerty Schneider danced charmingly.

As a result of the concert a considerable sum has been collected for the Belgian Relief Fund.

FURTHER NEWS OF ORT LEADERS

According to reports which have reached the American ORT Federation and have been communicated through that source to the South African ORT-OZE, the leaders of the ORT-OZE movement in France are all safe. Dr. A. Syngalowski, vice-president of the movement, is reported to be on the ORT farm "La Roche," in the south of France, whilst Dr. Bramson is said to be in Vichy.

"RAFFLES" AT THE 20th CENTURY THEATRE

David Niven plays the title role and Olivia de Havilland provides the romantic interest in the new Samuel Goldwyn production, "Raffles," which opens at the 20th Century to-night. A delightful mystery picture, in which a detective and a gentleman crook engage in an exciting battle of wits, "Raffles" provides excellent entertainment. A strong supporting cast, including Dudley Digges, Dame May Whitty, Lionel Pape, Douglas Walton, E. E. Clive, Peter Godfrey and Keith Hitchcock, surrounds the principal players.

"Raffles" was directed by Sam Wood with the craftsmanship and brilliance usually associated with his pictures, and he and the Goldwyn technical staff under his stewardship, are to be congratulated on an excellent piece of work.
