Sunday Tribune:

Questions for political leader page article:

i) As a minority group White South Africans have fears about the future. How do you propose to allay these fears.

ii) There is also a rising tide of black expectation in South Africa. How do you propose to meet this and meet their resultant aspirations.

iii) Soaring prices – especially food prices – are affecting all South Africans. How do you propose to contain inflation.

iv) South Africans are concerned at their "international outcast" status on many levels including sport. How do you propose to have this country take its place in the world community.

v) If all the policies of your party were implemented in full what sort of social and political conditions would South Africans live under.

We would appreciate it if your replies to all the questions do not exceed 1200 words. The deadline is Thursday morning April 16.

We would like to follow this up by publishing an 800 word piece on why people should vote for your party which we will publish on Sunday April 26. The deadline for that is Thursday morning April 23.
